U. S. STOPS ALL OIL FOR AXIS VIA SPAIN

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—United States Government stoppage of oil shipments to Spain in American tankers, an authoritative federal source said today, indicates a virtual embargo has been put in operation against fuel or lubricant supplies which might reach Germany or Italy through an intermediary.

International News Photograph Service

WOULD CLIP NAZI WINGS—One of the measures Britain has taken to prevent landings by Nazi troop-carrying planes on English highways is the construction of concrete pillars . . . seen above. Fields on each side of the highway are criss-crossed with ditches and other obstacles.

The stoppage became known officially when the Maritime Commission disclosed that a few days ago it had halted the sailing of two tankers, bound from a Texas port for Spain with 200,000 barrels of oil.

Great Britain announced today steps had been taken to halt oil shipments through Spain to Germany and Italy, thereby plugging a new gap in the blockade, caused by the defeat of France.—Editor's note.

"A policy of restricting charter approvals to trips mostly within the Western Hemisphere has been adopted by the commission," a maritime commission official explained. "This action was taken because the commission thought it dangerous to allow American ships to go so near belligerent activity."

The official said the commission adopted the general policy without being asked to do so by the White House or State Department. He said foreign tankers were not affected.

An authoritative source elsewhere, however, said the embargo was directed against potential go-betweens for the Axis powers or Japan, and that it was being applied under recent presidential proclamation authorizing the Treasury Department to impose shipping controls.

In the case of the Spanish shipments, this source said, officials reasoned that the quantities were too large for Spain's normal consumption.

The Spain-bound tankers, this source continued, were detained on legal orders of the "office of merchant ship movements" established in the Treasury following the President's recent executive order.

This new agency was given blanket authority to stop any ship, foreign or domestic, from entering an American port whenever the interests of the United States or the safety of the ship or cargo were believed to be in danger.

Stopping of the two tankers, however, was said to be the first exercise of these powers. The tankers were told they could not leave port with the Spanish oil. Accordingly, the oil was unloaded.

The neutrality act permits American ships to visit only two European countries, Spain and Portugal. The Maritime Commission said it had not taken any action to

Holt's Draft Plan To Bar Exemption Of Officeholders

WASHINGTON, July 25—Declaring public officials "have no right to exempt themselves from patriotic duties," Sen. Holt (D.) of West Virginia, was preparing legislation today to place members of Congress under the military conscription bill.

Holt announced his intention to offer an amendment to the conscription bill to tighten the exemption clause as Sen. Norris (I.-R.), Nebraska, warned the plan to draft men between the ages of 18 and 65 for military and home defense service will make the nation "warlike."

Sen. Minton (D.), of Indiana, voicing the general opinion of proponents of the legislation, said "people are convinced that the emergency requires conscription." He added that "it is not a question of actually calling up millions of men but of getting the nation's man power registered and trained if it proves necessary."

The bill, designed to conscript 24,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 45 for selective military training, was subjected to spirited debate among members as the Senate military affairs committee expected to soon report it to the Senate favorably, and the House military committee continued public hearings.

FEARS IDEA OF FORCE

Said Sen. Norris:

"If our young men are to be compelled to spend a goodly portion of every year in a military training camp," he said, "it would have an effect upon their natures.

"If such a program were carried on for 50 years, the rising

80 PLANES ROUTED IN CONVOY ATTACK

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—About 80 German planes swarmed down on a merchant convoy off the southeast coast today, but their bombs missed and the attackers were driven off by fierce anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes which chased them back across the English channel.

Eyewitnesses said the air "was alive with aircraft" during the battle.

Anti-aircraft guns roared into action and shell-bursts dotted the sky. There came to shore watchers the rattle of machine-guns as fighting planes attacked the raiders.

No bombs were dropped at first.

Earlier invading planes were reported over southwest England.

ATTACK SHIPS

German air raiders laid off Britain's Island fortress last night for the second night since they began large-scale daily bombings June 18, but came back after dawn with two attempted attacks on ships in convoy in the North Sea not far off the coast.

The ships and escorting vessels fired heavily and drove off both attacks without loss. British fighters drove the raiders out to sea.

The air ministry announced five German planes had been brought down by mid-afternoon in fights on the southeast and southwest coasts of England and the northeast coast of Scotland.

The raiders headed back for France after planting a half-mile string of bombs near vessels which escaped damage.

Glittering in the sunlight, the Nazi planes made brilliant targets for anti-aircraft guns.

The thunder of the big guns, the rattle of machine-guns and the thud of bombs set up a terrific din as the raiders, their whining motors wide open, twisted, turned, dived and climber to dodge the bursting shells.

NAZIS SINK FRENCH SHIP; MANY DEAD

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—The French ship Metternich, "one of a number used in repatriating French naval officers and men," was sunk by an enemy torpedo last night, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told Commons today.

This apparently was the 18,000 ton armed merchant vessel which the German high command said one of its torpedo motor boats had sunk off Portland.—Editor's Note.

"There were nearly 1300 officers nad men on board, the boat was flying the French flag and had the French colors painted on deck and sides and was fully illuminated," the First Lord said.

"It was torpedoed by a motor boat at 10:30 last night. Passengers and crew were given five minutes to take to the boats but each time she tried to signal her name she was again fired on and she sank in four or five minutes."

It was reported that about 1000 men were saved. The ship was headed for Marseilles.

Alexander said the Metternich was one of the ships used in accordance with terms of the French-German Armistice and French Government representatives had been informed of the British intention to repatriate men in French ships.

British Store Fired In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, July 25 (AP)—Bottles filled with an incendiary liquid were hurled through windows of the British-owned department store, Herrods of London, last night, starting several blazes which were extinguished promptly.

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP

Nazi Ace Diplomat

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—The Daily Telegraph attributed to "the most reliable neutral sources" today a report that a serious difference of opinion among Adolf Hitler's advisers delays the attempted invasion of Britain.

The paper said Marshal Hermann Goering, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and Col.-Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, insist the invasion must not be launched because the risks are too great, while Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo, press for the invasion.

ARMY MAY SAVE HIM—Last year Pat Lynch, 18, of Brooklyn, N. Y., pictured with sister, Nora, was in trouble with police and court placed him in her custody. Now, he is in trouble again, and Nora hopes to show grand jury that an enlistment in the Army would be his salvation. Police charge boy stole a pair of second-hand shoes.

Death Plunge Ends Boy's Crime Career

He was a "smart" kid.

So he ran away from "the swellest family a man could ask for."

But 20-year-olds Jackson Brown, formerly of Boston and Winthrop, found the crime road he followed one that ended in remorse and tragedy.

He lay dead today on a slab in the morgue at Niagara Falls, N. Y., after a suicide plunge from a ninth floor hotel window.

He left a note confessing a mail robbery and a series of holdups in Boston, Worcester and New York.

PATHETIC DOCUMENT

A pathetic little document—an unconscious sermon to other "smart" youths tempted by the easy road of crime and thrills and other people's money—the note said in part:

"I have willed it that I would never go to jail because it's so easy to jump out of a window. I can't live my live over again, so it has to be this way.

"I'm one of those smart fellows who ran away from the swellest family a man could ask for."

Niagara Falls police said the note also contained a semi-incoherent surmise that the suicide-writer "ought to go to the top floor to jump" because the ninth floor might not be high enough to kill him.

LIVED ONLY AN HOUR

He did, in fact, live an hour, although the ninth floor plunge broke almost every bone in his body.

Most recent residence of young Brown was in Chicago, police said. But they found a birth certificate indicating he was born at Winthrop.

Records here revealed that Brown was born at the Metcalf Hospital, Winthrop, March 25, 1920.

His parents were Leon and Pauline Porter Brown, both giving their permanent residence as in Springfield.

FINGERPRINT CHECK

The father gave his occupation as salesman. How long the parents lived in Winthrop remained undetermined today, according to police.

Boston authorities said a Jackson Brown formerly of Summit ave., Brighton, has been wanted here for several months on bad check charges. They forwarded his fingerprints to Niagara Falls.

Police said young Brown's suicide note contained a crime diary headed "Here's my confession—now catch me!"

Among the crimes listed were the following:

"Chicago, cash $276, checks $450, no good; stamps $200, stick-up $1800. Boston, cash $180; New York, robbery $1200; Brookline, Mass., robbery $5000; Hollywood, $5000 and jewels."

Chief Holohan said the diary indicated Brown received only $500 as his share of the Brookline holdup; $100 as his "cut" of a Boston mail robbery.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who recovered partially from a paralytic stroke in May, was admitted to New Rochelle Hospital for a cerebral examination.

Wealthy Bostonians Victimized by Cult

Large sums of money were mulcted from prominent Greater Bostonians by members of the California branch of the I Am Foundation, Chief Postal Inspector John J. Breslin disclosed today.

The cult, 24 of whose officials were under indictment by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles, Cal., did a landoffice business in this city, according to authorities.

Breslin, pointing out that inspectors from Los Angeles had collected the evidence used in the grand jury probe, said, nevertheless, that he understood startling disclosures would follow the indictments.

Millions of dollars have passed through the hands of the cult's directors in more than a dozen cities through the U. S., it is charged.

RICH WOMEN MEMBERS

More than 400 members, consisting largely of elderly and wealthy women, attend regular Sunday night meetings of the I Am Foundation at its Boston headquarters, it was learned.

The meeting place includes the entire sixth floor of a Tremont st. building. Most of the space is devoted to a large auditorium, expensively furnished and equipped with an organ, where the congregations gather for singing and preaching services.

At the front of the meeting room, or temple, as the I Am members designate it, are a high pulpit and the organ. The furnishings are described as luxurious but not gaudy.

A spirit of fervor and quiet determination is reported to mark members and leaders alike.

Their exultation they express by frequently bursting into songs. Often they are heard singing popular tunes, to which their own words have been added.

Inspector Breslin said a complete report of the New England activities of I Am promoters is in the hands of Los Angeles federal au-

Army Has a Heart; Brothers Together

KANSAS CITY, July 25 (AP)—Because the army has a heart, Vance Breyfogle will join his 19-year-old twin, Stanley, in the First Medical Regiment at Camp Ord, Cal.

Stanley enlisted here June 8 but Vance was rejected on physical grounds. After a corrective operation, Vance was accepted and given a place saved for him in the otherwise filled quota.

Her marriage to Band Leader Gus Divona annulled, Singer Betty Allen, New York showgirl, must wait at least three months before remarrying, if she intends to, because of clause in the annulment. So, Betty says she'll devote herself exclusively to her career . . . singing.

BETTY, FREE, MUST SHUN MOONBEAMS

NEW YORK, July 24—The moon and a Massachusetts countryside are powerful aids to romance, but pretty and pert Betty Allen, New York singer, must beware of both for at least the next three months.

That's the time limit banning remarriage for Betty as stipulated in an annulment decree splitting her and Gus Divona, a band leader.

Betty, who once shared an apartment with the beauteous and youthful Lois Andrews, now Mrs. George Jessel, explained that "Daddy wanted the judge to extend the ban to a year, but he wouldn't."

Her romance with Divona started in 1938, she said, when both were touring Massachusetts with a band.

He popped the question in a bus, describing to her a pair of wealthy parents and a palatial home in Westchester—both of which faded with the dawn.

They separated 10 days later, she said.

Trials on Monday For Liner Exemplar

Officials of Bethlehem Steel Company today rushed plans for a trial run Monday of the American Export Line steamer Exemplar.

The big ship, 473 feet long and costing more than $2,000,000, was launched at Fore River shipyards only eight weeks ago and prepared for sea in near-record time. It will be used in the Indian trade, sailing from Philadelphia, Aug. 24.

MRS. LOUISE WOOLEY MORGAN

North Shore Socialite Asks Reno Divorce

MORGAN RENO SPLIT TO BE FRIENDLY ONE

Despite the decision of Mrs. Louise Wooley Morgan, noted teacher of dramatic art, to seek a divorce in Reno, she and her husband, John W. Morgan of Swampscott, prominent lawyer, will remain good friends, acquaintances of the couple insisted today.

Mrs. Morgan, a member of one of Peabody's leading families, filed suit for divorce after more than eight years of marriage. The couple were married in Salem on "Leap Year Day," Feb. 29, 1932, in St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Salem. Morgan is attorney for the National Leather Workers' Union, in eastern U. S. He is a veteran of the World War.

John W. Morgan

Mrs. Morgan is a graduate of Lasell Junior College and Leland Powers School of Expression in Boston. Until her marriage she taught dramatics at National Park Seminary in Forest Glen, Md.

One of her students was the famous film star, Margaret Lindsay, who last February visited Mrs. Morgan at her Nason rd. home after completing the leading role in the "House of the Seven Gables," and had come to the North Shore to see the original Salem house of which Nathaniel Hawthorne wrote.

At his Lynn office yesterday, Atty. Morgan said he and his wife separated last month.

"I still think she is a very fine woman," Morgan said, "but we reached an impasse and this is the result."

Morgan is a graduate of Harvard Law School. He is past commander of Post 6, American Legion, of Lynn, and a member of the Lynn

Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of Jesse Wooley, well-known Peabody leather manufacturer.

Pope Performs Kin's Marriage

VATICAN CITY, July 25 (AP)—Pope Pius XII performed the marriage ceremony today for his youngest nephew, Marchese Giulio Pacelli, and Signorina Piera Bombrini, daughter of Marchese Bombrini, former mayor of Genoa.

The ceremony took place in the Pope's private chapel.

Marchese Pacelli, about 30, is the son of the late Marchese Francesco Pacelli, who took part in the negotions which led to the Lateran treaty between Italy and the Vatican in 1929. Pope Pius XII at that time was Cardinal Pacelli.

The Pope later received John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium, in a private audience. Cudahy is resting for several days in Rome en route to Washington.

American's Wife Slapped by Japs

SHANGHAI, July 25 (AP)—A belated foreign dispatch said today that the Russian-born wife of an American, C. J. Meyer of Salt Lake City, Utah, was slapped in a scuffle with Japanese plainclothes police at Tsingtao during recent disorders there involving United States sailors and Japanese authorities.

Chain Letter Offers Hubby 15,175 Beauties

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25 (INS)—Postal authorities were uncertain today whether a new chain letter making its appearance here could be described as a lottery. The letter said:

"This chain was started in Reno in the hope of bringing happiness to all tired business men. Unlike most chains, this one does not cost any money.

"Simply send a copy of this letter to five male friends. Then bundle up your wife and send her to the fellow whose name heads the list. When your name reaches the top you will in return receive 15,175 gorgeous girls.

"Have faith: Do not break the chain; one man broke the chain and got his wife back."

Hub Musician Wins Heart of Anne Nagel

HEART TO MUSICIAN

Like many film celebrities, Anne Nagel is kept busy denying reports of new romances, but today she smiled when asked about her friendship with Eliot Daniel of Brookledge st., Roxbury, pianist with Rudy Vallee's orchestra.

The beauteous Jamaica Plain red-head, who has previously been reported betrothed to Pierce Garrett, wealthy Los Angeles broker, had just finished telling reporters her rumored romance with Marshall Grant, the Universal producer, was a "gag."

Eliot Daniel

"Of course I know Marshall Grant very well—he was my boss in my last picture and was very kind to me," she said. "But it was nothing serious, really."

WOULDN'T SAY

But would she ever be married—say to a rising young Boston musician?

Anne wouldn't say.

Nor would the musician's mother, Mrs. Amelia Daniel, of Brookledge st., Roxbury.

"Engaged? . . . I don't know what to say," she replied. "It is true, though, that they are very friendly. In fact, we all know each other very well."

It is understood, however, that the young couple are very much in love. They have agreed if their feelings are the same after two years, if their respective careers have not changed them after that period, they will be married.

TIME WILL TELL

Until then, however, they're not talking.

During her visit here, Miss Nagel is staying at the home of an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Greene of Melrose. She arrived here last Saturday, is due to leave for the Coast on Aug. 2, to begin work on a new picture.

Pan-American Parley Seen Nearing Accord

HAVANA, July 25 (AP)—Representatives of the 21 American republics reached today the climax of their conference on hemisphere defense and economic problems as the deadline for submission of proposals brought a test of the solidarity among these nations.

Proposals adhering closely to United States objectives were before committees for study on the three main problems—European colonies in this hemisphere, suppression of "fifth column" activities, and relief for economic system dislocated by the European war.

However, the Argentine delegation—center of other delegates' fears about lack of unity—worked late into the night on proposals for introduction before the noon deadline.

One of these related to European possessions. Some delegates thought it might conflict sharply with the "collective trusteeship" plan supported by the United States and several other countries.

The principal resolution relating to subversive activities, presented by the United States, calls for action by all American nations to eradicate any "fifth column" work by foreign diplomatic or consular officials enjoying immunity privileges.

Economic proposals were understood to be of a broad character following closely the four-point objective outlined by Secretary Hull in his address, Monday. These were:

Law Banning Birth Control Denounced

Legislation that makes it a criminal offense to disseminate birth control information was sharply attacked today at the New England Conference on Tomorrow's Children at the Harvard Summer School.

Dr. Eric Stone, chairman of the medical advisory board of the Rhode Island Maternal Health Association said that under such legislation America is breeding the unfit.

In these days of world crisis, when a falling birth rate is an American calamity, the birth control movement, which has been accused of being a destructive force, is exactly the opposite, Dr. Stone said.

SEEN AS SOLUTION

"It would solve some of the social and economic problems of our complex society if population control and selective breeding were permitted," said the doctor.

Ralph Borsodi, director of the School of Living of Suffern, N. Y., advocated the abolishment of metropolitan cities as the way to "end degeneracy of the American population and to increase the American birthrate."

"The modern city family is not normal, it is pathological," Borsodi said. "The way to end the fear of life that keeps a city population from reproducing itself is to abolish the metropolitan city altogether.

COUNTRY HOMES NEEDED

"Country homesteads must be built, not city housing projects. The practice of subsidizing manufacturing centers and penalizing the agricultural population must be ended."

Rev. Joseph F. MacDonnell, Weston College sociologist, said the most serious problem in the United States today is the economic bondage and the disheartening inability for self-help in families in congested areas.

Prof. Frank Lorimer of American University, Washington, suggested that the American family be subsidized by the government as it is in Germany and Italy because in America, particularly in American cities, the birthrate is only one-half as high as it should be to make permanent population replacement.

Stressing the need for more children in America, care must be taken that they are turned into decent citizens rather than into soldiers, Dr. Clifford Kirkpatrick of the University of Minnesota, said.

Another to express alarm over the birthrate was Dr. Carle C. Zimmerman of Harvard.

MILK SHOWER WINS HER DIVORCE

Not only was she a target for a suit of clothes, which came whizzing through the air, but she was knocked down at least once and on another occasion was drenched by a glass of milk—thanks to her husband.

These and similar interesting episodes marked the married life of Alice Warren Winslow, daughter of Sidney W. Winslow, Jr., millionaire banker and president of the United Shoe Machinery Corp., and Casper Ranger, 2d, according to her testimony in Dedham Probate Court.

After hearing the events described, Judge Joseph R. McCoole awarded Mrs. Ranger an uncontested decree and brought to an end a marriage which had its start with a brilliant wedding in 1926.

By agreement joint custody of Casper Ranger 3d, 13; Ann, 9; Allen, 10, and Joseph, 4, was arranged, with the mother having them from Oct. 1 to May 31, and the father from June 1 to Sept. 30. During the period when the mother has the children, their father will pay her $100 a month for their support, but otherwise she asked for no alimony.

The couple were married in one of the first June weddings of 1926, at the Winslows' Brookline estate, "Fernwood," with the ceremony performed by the bride's grandfather, Rev. Benjamin Reynolds Bulkeley of Concord. Educated at Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Ct., Miss Winslow had made her debut in the season of 1923-1924. Her husband, son of Joseph P. Ranger of Holyoke, prepared for college at Andover and was graduated from M. I. T. in 1925.

2 Places Buddy Isn't Welcome

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 25 (AP)—Several "Welcome, Buddy" signs were taken down by police today as the Bergen County unit of the American Legion prepared to hold its 14th annual convention here this week-end.

The signs had been placed in front of the county jail and the Hackensack police station.

Tar Enlists in Time For Free Operation

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 25 (AP)—John Leslie Bogdany, 19, picked just the right time to join the United States navy.

A few hours after he had enlisted he was stricken with appendicitis and taken to a hospital for an operation. The navy recruiting officer said Uncle Sam would foot the bill.

WILLKIE CHEERED IN WEST

SALT LAKE CITY, July 25 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie wound up a series of Utah appearances today with a statement that he frankly had come here for votes and that he had enjoyed seeking them.

In response to a question, Willkie said that he liked to be with people. He saw thousands of them during his trip from his Colorado Springs, Colo., hotel to Cheyenne, Wyo.; Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah.

The Republican presidential nominee arranged to return to Colorado Springs today and renew work there on his acceptance address to be delivered at Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.

DRIVE TO RODEO

Willkie, accompanied by Mrs. Willkie, drove last night to the Ogden rodeo. He received tumultuous cheers as he drove over the grounds before the performance started.

"Both Mrs. Willkie and I," the nominee said, "are grateful for the cordial, spontaneous and overwhelming welcome we have received in this western country.

"We realize—especially being here—how precious is the American way of life. I will do all I can, now and the rest of my life, to preserve the American way."

Willkie had said earlier and repeated later that he had wanted to come to Utah to see the pioneer day celebration in Salt Lake City and the rodeo in Ogden but that he had another purpose—that of gathering votes.

SITS IN HEAT

Willkie sat with Mrs. Willkie in an unshaded reviewing stand at Salt Lake City yesterday and applauded as a two-hour parade moved past. Those in his company were exhausted by the 85-degree heat, but Willkie told reporters he was feeling fine.

The nominee made a brief trip to the Salt Lake City rodeo and said in an address that "the democratic way of life is in test throughout the world."

F. D., Wallace Plan Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The first conference on campaign tactics between President Roosevelt and his running mate, Secretary Henry A. Wallace, was scheduled today at the White House.

Democratic leaders doubted it would result in any immediate disclosure of strategy to be followed in the campaign to install Mr. Roosevelt in the White House for a third term and Wallace in the vice-presidency.

They suggested, however, Wallace probably would be assigned the heavy work of taking the campaign to the voters on three-speaking tours. The President has indicated his contributions to the electioneering might be confined largely to press conference and radio pronouncements.

Raskob Wears Willkie Button

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—John J. Raskob, formerly high in the Democratic party's councils, appeared at the World's Fair wearing a "Willkie-for-President" button.

Wearing a similar button was Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the former New York governor whose campaign as Democratic presidential nominee Raskob managed in 1928. They came to watch Smith judge a barber shop quartet contest

AL SMITH SET TO AID WILLKIE

NEW YORK, July 25 (INS)—Abandoning the sphinx-like attitude he adopted after nomination of the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket, Al Smith will talk—and walk—next week, in the belief of Willkie supporters who are waiting with open arms.

He's only waiting now, it was learned today, for outcome of the meeting of dissident Democrats in Chicago which was postponed but which is expected to be held some time next week.

After that he'll decide whether to oin up with the Illinois group, the Associated Willkie Clubs of America, or the Liberty League he espoused when he "took a walk" in 1936 to stump for Republican Alf Landon against Pres. Roosevelt.

THREE COMPETE

The three groups are now competing for support of the gruff-voiced former governor and 1928 Democratic presidential candidate who made the brown derby famous, added luster to the picture of the sidewalks of New York, and still claims a large national following.

Over Chicago Jr.'s youthful volunteer generalissimo of the Associated Willkie Clubs, telephoned Smith, whom he has known since 1918, although Willkie and Smith have been casual acquaintances for several years.

Ostensible purpose of Boody's call was to assure Smith that he hadn't spotted the former governor as having predicted 2,500,000 democratic votes for Willkie, as reported in the papers.

"It was another speaker at a meeting of our New Jersey unit who quoted Smith," Boody said, "and someone got it mixed up. I explained what had happened and Smith was much relieved. That's all there was to the conversation. He didn't tell me anything about his plans and I didn't broach the subject. Of course we will welcome him into our ranks if he decides to join up."

MAY JOIN BOOT

Among persons close to Smith there was growing belief that when Smith "walks" he will align himself not with the Illinois group of disgruntled Democrats or the obsolescent Liberty League but with the Boot Training organization headed oy Root, son of the public utilities magnate who has even more space in "Who's Who" than Willkie.

The headquarters of the Root-organized Associated Willkie Clubs of America occupy the same 16th floor of the Pershing Square Building previously used as headquarters for Thomas E. Dewey, whose presidential boom collapsed at the Philadelphia convention.

WPA Men to Lose No Pay in Training

All workers accepted for the training from WPA rolls will be allowed full makeup time on their return from camp.

WINTHROP ASK AID

Because the abandonment of the Narrow Gauge railway will decrease the burdens on Winthrop's streets, through additional bus service, the town selectmen have appealed to the state department of public works for $86,500 to widen roads and bridges.

thorities, who will have charge of prosecuting the charges.

Testimony by postal inspectors resulted in 16 counts of misuse of the mails and one count of conspiracy that promoters of the movement fraudulently obtained large donations on promises that members would be immortal. The indictment mentioned sums in excess of $80,000.

Temples or instruction centers were listed in the indictment as at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Cleveland, Denver, Salt Lake City, Fort Worth, Dallas and West Palm Beach.

The indictment charged the defendants falsely taught their followers to practice absolute sex continence on the ground that all their energies should be devoted to advancement of themselves and the movement. These teachings, oral and written, the true bill contended, caused "the breaking up of homes among many" of the faithful.

Those indicted include Mrs. Edna Ballard and young Donald Ballard, widow and son of the movement's founder, Guy Ballard, who called himself St. Germain and contended he was a reincarnation of George Washington.

Although the elder Ballard died last Dec. 29, he was referred to in the indictment as a defendant, "merely for the purpose of convenience."

The true bill called Mrs. Ballard "alias Joan of Arc, Jesus and Lotus Ray King." Her son was identified as Edona Eros Ballard, his true name, and also "Lafayette."

Norman Neukom, assistant U. S. attorney who presented the case to the jury, said the "I Am" cultists had collected close to $3,000,000 since the movement's inception in 1930.

In Boston, the members are almost ascetic, eschewing alcohol and tobacco, even frowning on the odor of a cigarette when they sniff one in the corridors of the building.

Services are held every week day at noon and again at 7 p. m. The temple is opened at 11 a. m., in charge throughout the day of a "hostess" or female preacher who handles the services and is available for consultations by individual members.

There is a staff of hostesses and a couple of male directors—a staff of perhaps a dozen.

Noonday services generally draw only about a dozen, while the evening exercises attract generally about 60 persons, it is said.

Milk employes and persons coming in general contact with them agreed "they're mighty nice folks."

Once a week there is a "youth night," attracting about 35 to 40 of the younger set, while services on Sunday night are the most largely attended by older persons, and the most elaborate program is arranged for this night.

Kelly-for-Governor Meetings Tonight

One of two meetings for workers and organizers of the Francis E. Kelly-for-Governor group is being held tonight in the headquarters of a political opponent of two years ago—in the James M. Curley Club on Dudley st., Roxbury, opposite Hampden st.

The other meeting will be in Ward 16, in the American Legion headquarters on Gallivan blvd., Dorchester. The former Lieutenant-Governor will speak at both meetings.

Beauties in Rush To Enter Contest

From all parts of the state reigning beauties of city and town today tossed dainty bonnets into the ring as the "Miss Massachusetts 1940" talent and beauty contest swung into high gear.

Girls with charm, brains and beauty, now nearly 100 strong, have already sent in applications and their bid for fame and fortune exceeds the fondest dreams.

COMPETE FOR TITLE

Entries will close Aug. 3, and the dates and places of preliminary contests to select the state winner will be announced soon in the Boston Daily Record, Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, sponsors of the contest.

Girls of beauty, charm and talent have already sent in their entries. And to the winner will go the opportunity to compete for the national title of "Miss America 1940" at the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant to be held the week of Sept. 2.

Even if the State winner is not selected for the ultimate honor of being America's most beautiful girl, she will be rewarded with a trip to Atlantic City and a gay holiday week of festivities, with expenses including transportation, accommodations and meals at a first-class hotel, and a smart wardrobe suitable for the occasion.

The contest is open to any girl between the ages of 18 and 25 who is a resident of Massachusetts and an American citizen and who has never been married. Talent must supplement beauty; a girl who can sing or dance or who has musical or dramatic ability will be given prior consideration.

POISE, CHARM COUNT

Amateurs and professionals are eligible, but past professional experience will not be considered in making the award. Poise, charm, intelligence and character will be important.

This is your great opportunity. Read the rules of the contest and fill out the accompanying entry blank. Remember that other winners of this contest have found the way to fame and wealth, and remember that you too may be lucky and that your dreams will come true.

As a precautionary measure each contestant should write her name and address on the reverse side of each photograph. These papers cannot assume responsibility for the return of photographs submitted by the contestants.

7—The finalist in the contest will be in a series of preliminary contests, the dates and places of which will be announced later. Winners of the preliminary contests will be judged in a Final Contest, date and place to be selected later. At this time one finalist and two alternates will be chosen.

8—Contestants will be required to appear for judging at the places and times specified by the manager of the contest.

9—The winner will receive free transportation to Atlantic City, N. J., and return, first class meals and accommodations, wardrobe transportation and wardrobe at a leading Atlantic City hotel, and a will be supplied by the Daily Record, Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Cobbler Faces Deportation

ALBANY, N. Y., July 25 (INS)—Unless his attorneys can secure a restraining order, Rosario Chirillo, 62-yearold Mamaroneck cobbler, and his family today faced deportation to Wooster, O., under provisions of a century-old New York State law.

The State Court of Appeals, dismissing Chirillo's appeal from a Westchester County court order, ruled that Chirillo, by going on relief less than a year after leaving Ohio, violated the ancient law authorizing banishment of out-of-state persons who become public charges.

The court, however, avoided a clear-cut decision on the constitutionality of the statute.

97 WAR BABES FIND N. E. HAVEN

By INEZ ROBB
International News Service Staff Writer

NEW HAVEN, Ct., July 25—The lengthening tides of total war flowed into this quiet college town today as it took to its academic heart 97 excited, high spirited young refugees from England and 23 young mothers who accompanied them.

After more than one fortnight of flight from the threatened destruction of their homeland this group—the wives and children of members of the Oxford University faculty—have found sanctuary here as the guests of a committee of Yale faculty members who have organized to receive Oxford and Cambridge University children.

To the children, who range in age from three weeks to 15 years, arrival in this peaceful old New England town was one more incident in a journey of high adventure.

GET LOCAL WELCOME

For the mothers it was only another lull in the long, sad flight from home and from husbands who have remained behind to defend their country to the death.

This is not only the largest number of refugees to reach this country as a group, but the first body of children to enter the United States under a corporate visa—a precedent that is expected to facilitate the entry of many additional child refugees in the future.

Hundreds of New Haven citizens added their warm and informal welcome to the more staid salutations of the Yale committee when the train, bearing the children on their 10-hour journey from Montreal, arrived here.

HE LIKES AMERICA

"Why have so many people come here?" Joey Burn, 12, with large blue eyes and a curly golden brown bob, wanted to know.

"We just want to welcome you to America and tell you how glad we are to have you here,' explained a large, plump, perspiring woman in the neighborly, unofficial reception committee.

"Well, I like it already," said Joey politely.

Sleepy-eyed, round-faced Felicity Jacqueline Maidment, a month old, was the youngest member of the party. She was accompanied by her mother.

There were a dozen babies of one year or younger in the group, and 39 who were six or younger.

Not even excitement of their arrival in America could make the children forget their solemn promise not to reveal the name of the ship on which they sailed from England.

WAR SECRETS GUARDED

"You must not chatter," one mother warned her son, who was talking to a bystander.

"But you're in America now and you can say anything you like," said the puzzled New Havenite.

"Yes, but I'm British, and I don't give away secrets," the child replied proudly.

After a few days rest, a dozen of the children will go to private homes in Maine and Massachusetts.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

British Claim Air Raids Block Nazis

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—The British air force, in repeated attacks against Germany and German-occupied countries, has made it "extremely difficult" for the Reich to organize mass attacks on Britain from existing airdromes and bases she "hoped to establish" just across the English channel and the North sea, an informed British source said today.

More than 1000 British attacks in the last three months have "to a great extent succeeded in breaking down the scheme Germany hoped would culminate in devastating attacks on these islands following her sweeping victories" on the continent, it was stated.

In the six weeks' period between June 1 and July 18 alone, the RAF made 377 bombing raids on targets within the Reich itself.

This source said important military and industrial objectives had been struck daily and nightly "not in isolated raids by single aircraft but large scale operations."

Germany repeatedly has charged the British with attacking "non-military" objectives.—Editor's Note.

The raids, he said, were planned to cause "the greatest possible destruction to the enemy's vital war supplies" and make new air bases "acquired nearer our shores practically untenable."

"They have made the enemy realize that if our air force is numerically inferior to his own, it is vastly superior in both machines and personnel," he asserted.

"British raids have made it extremely difficult for Germany to organize massed attacks on this country from airdromes in Holland, Belgium and France, or from bases the enemy hoped to establish in Norway."

Between May 10 and June 17, he reported, there were 416 big raids on German territory, and in exactly a month since the capitulation of France, 517 "thrusts" were made against Germany's main military and industrial centers.

In addition to targets on land, this source said, the German navy has been attacked 66 times since the start of the war. He said 64 raids were made on Norway while British troops were there.

He reported an analysis showed 141 raids on industrial points, 229 on airdromes 250 on military objectives and 275 on enemy communications, and claimed there was "ample proof" that the RAF's "violent, non-stop onslaughts . . . are making the enemy reel under hammer blows."

BRITONS WANT EVEN HIGHER TAX

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—The British people, faced by the heaviest taxation in their history, condemned today the 3,467,000,000 pounds ($13,868,000,000) budget of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood as "timid and inadequate" and clamored for "a real war budget" framed with "financial realism."

Prime Minister Churchill's government, which has assessed a 42½ per cent income tax, thus found itself faced with the same charge leveled against the cabinet of Neville Chamberlain—that of "puny" war finance.

From the Manchester Guardian and the London Times to the tabloid Daily Mirror the press joined in attacks on the supplementary budget. Most of them gave Sir Kingsley his due for seeing the real danger, a rise in national income and fall in the supply of consumable goods.

But the Times pointed out: "The only steps taken to meet the menace are a few more turns of old familiar screws—income tax, estate duties and duties on beer and tobacco."

The Daily Mirror termed the chancellor "true to the appeasement clique" and his budget "another son to the rich."

A Manchester Guardian editorial asked: "Did something happen to the budget? Did the Treasury originally conceive it is a really radical instrument which, when the chancellor (and the war cabinet) saw it was, for political reasons severely whittled away."

Nazi Bombs Sink Big British Liner

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP) The New York Sun says it has learned that the Cunard White Star liner Lancastria, which once was in cruise service from New York to the West Indies, was sunk with a loss of 500 men during the evacuation of Allied soldiers from France.

The 16,243-ton British liner picked up 6000 soldiers at Brest and was preparing to sail when German planes scored three hits on her with aerial torpedoes, says the Sun.

Suez Canal Co. Fires Enemy Employes

CAIRO, Egypt, July 25 (AP)—The Suez Canal Co. asked the Egyptian government today to supply 200 workers to replace discharged employes from "enemy countries."

The company's statistical report showed the war cutting deeply into canal traffic. In June, only 48 ships totaling 150,874 tons passed through, compared with 248 ships totaling 1,086,000 tons in June, 1939.

Wheat Crop Below Average in Italy

ROME, July 25 (AP)—The Minister of Agriculture advised Premier Mussolini today that Italy's wheat crop this year would total about 72,000,000 quintals—about 7,700,000 quintals below the average of the last three years.

U.S. EMBARGO PUT ON OIL FOR SPAIN

halt oil shipments to Portugal, a country disposed more to Great Britain than to the Axis nations.

Britain Clamps Oil Blockade Against Spain

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—Great Britain has taken steps to halt oil shipments to Germany through Fascist Spain, thereby plugging a troublesome new gap in her blockade of the Reich, it was reported today.

An "important statement" in which Minister of Economic Warfare Hugh Dalton was expected to describe for the House of Commons this afternoon just what measures had been adopted was postponed indefinitely without explanation.

Britain's blockade sprung new leaks with the fall of France, and one of the most important threats to Britain was the flow of oil, lifeblood of modern mechanized war, through Generalissimo Franco's Nationalist Spain.

There now are direct land routes from Germany across France to Spain, giving Germany indirect use of innumerable Spanish ports which before the fall of France were useless to her.

The well-informed Financial Times said today in discussing the problem:

"The British government has been reviewing its blockade policy following the collapse of France. Spain is regarded as one of the weaknesses in the position, and the government has taken note of the extent to which that country has been building up oil stocks while supplying a good deal to Germany.

"The British government will want definite assurances from Spain that oil supplies do not go to Germany. The government does not object to Spain obtaining essential supplies up to the limit of her pre-civil war requirements."

German Cities Hard Hit in Air Raids

NEW YORK, July 25 (INS)—Sandwiched between threats of destruction awaiting Britain, the German radio virtually admitted today that several Reich cities have suffered heavily in the war. Columbia Broadcasting System in New York picked up this item from an official German broadcast:

"The Fuehrer has ordered reconstruction of his cities of Oldenburg, Posen, Saarbruecken and Koenigsberg, where parks and public buildings will be built."

Hero Ship Sunk Saving Its Convoy

LONDON, July 25 (AP) — The British destroyer Brazen, which the Admiralty announced Monday was sunk without loss of life "sacrificed herself to save a British convoy" in a battle between 50 enemy planes, Stoker William Phillips declared today.

Phillips, one of five volunteers who remained aboard the destroyer with her stricken crew, Lieut.-Commander Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, "until the very last," said the Brazen downed three of the planes, damaged two others and successfully drew the planes away from the convoy.

The stoker said only five of the crew were wounded despite "merciless machine-gunning," but that some were "terribly burned." He described how the Brazen's gunners after she had been hit, "paddled about in the water, but kept up a continuous fire."

"The wounded were taken aboard another destroyer under heavy fire," Phillips said, "while the remainder of the crew went forward to try to balance the ship."

He said the other destroyer broke out a cable to attempt a tow, but that "our ship broke and many men found themselves in the water."

"The captain on the bridge called for volunteers to try to save the ship," Phillips continued. "I was helping a wounded man off, so I stayed with some others.

"The captain had to get off the bridge as it went under water. Then, as the rest of the ship went down, he gave the order to jump. We made sure he jumped as well.

"We took the rap, but we certainly saved the convoy. When we finished with 'Jerry' they had no bombs left."

generation would know no other ideal except that of military force."

OPPOSITION FORMS

Despite the addition of Norris to a slowly forming opposition bloc, Senator Minton predicted that Congress would enact a compulsory service program.

"I think," Minton told reporters, "that the people are convinced that emergency requires it."

Outside the Capitol, the National Council for the Prevention of War joined the opposition with a charge of "indecent haste" in seeking compulsory training. The Council urged that the nation have a chance to consider fully a program which it asserted is equivalent to "virtual revolution in our entire outlook."

The Senate military committee which has approved the major provisions of the Burke-Wadsworth training bill, was called into session again (at 11 30 a. m., Boston time), to consider remaining sections.

Daladier to Face Special Tribunal

VICHY, France, July 25 (AP)—A special tribunal will be set up to try former Premier Edouard Daladier and other former government leaders for responsibility for France's entry into war and for her defeat, it was indicated today.

A military court will look into the cases of men who were in the armed forces at the time of incurring alleged responsibilities for the war.

80 PLANES ROUTED IN ATTACK

in southwest England after the unsuccessful attack on the convoy.

Eyewitnesses said British fighters chased the big craft inshore, smoke pouring from its still droning engines while the pilot strove desperately but in vain for a safe landing.

"It seemed to me and my mate that it was coming straight for us and we threw ourselves into a hedge," said one spectator.

"The plane hit a low brick wall and ploughed across the field where we had been standing. It burst quickly into flames and I saw one German throw his comrade out. The man had broken a leg.

PILOT DIES IN FIRE

"The pilot burned to death. A third member of the crew who was uninjured was seized by soldiers. This fellow had a package of English cigarettes in his pocket."

Ten minutes before the appearance of the bombers, a solitary plane, flying so high it was invisible, left a thin trail of white smoke.

When it turned tail for France, eight junkers 87's swept from the clouds.

A strong force of British craft pursued the Germans to the French coast while other British planes engaged in a free for all with the strong force of German escort ships.

The bombers split into three groups. The first group attacked the British ships hovering near the shore. The second and third blasted away at land objectives.

Later another formation of 15 German planes, apparently fighters, flew in from the channel. Ground defenses set up a curtain of fire and R.A.F. fighters took to the air to chase them back.

TYPICAL FAMILY IS HOST AT FAIR

WORLD'S FAIR, N. Y., July 25 – Acting as hosts to runners-up in the Boston American-Sunday Advertiser's Typical American Family contest, fulfilling their own crowded program and sightseeing on the Fair Grounds was all in a day to the Arthur B. Maddisons of Melrose, Mass., winners of the contest.

They were visited by the R. C. Williamsons of Brockton, the M. A. Barnes of South Weymouth and the W. R. Mosers of Middleton, with their respective children in the Maddison's small $2500 FHA home, furnished and decorated by Sears, Roebuck and Company, on the Fair grounds.

Maddison, who whimsically calls himself "the Squire of Rainbow Avenue," and his wife showed their guests the home.

"You know," said Squire Maddison, "I am a contractor and, as such, was skeptical that a house could be built so well for so little money. I take back every word I ever said before. I have gone over every inch of this house and I am here to say that it is beautifully constructed and will stand up."

PRAISES FURNISHINGS

Attractive Mrs. Maddison, who is that rare combination of mother and writer, has much to say in praise of the home furnishings.

"The children hadn't been in the house five minutes," she said, "before they declared they would have to have a radio console like this one," pointing out the early American maple piece, "and I am simply charmed with the simplicity of the furnishings. Everything is in such good taste!"

Pretty 17-year-old Barbara Madison, Jackson College journalism student, said she was just "so busy and thrilled" about the whole experience that even if she had an assignment, she wouldn't know exactly what to write about.

PUTS IN BUSY DAY

The Maddison itinerary included luncheon at home, cooked and served by their efficient maid Frances, a telephone call to the Boston American from the American Telephone Building at 3:30 o'clock and television at the RCA Building at 4:00.

Here the whole family had the thrill of actually being interviewed on television. They also had records of their voices in an informal little interview by an RCA reporter.

At 8:15 they attended a performance of American Jubilee, the musical extravaganza on the Fair grounds and went backstage to meet the principal actors. Fireworks followed the Jubilee and then they attended the amusement area until .

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Burnette and their two children, Gladstone, Jr., 14, and Gloria, 10, were with the Maddisons all day. They are the typical American family from Atlanta, Georgia.

ON TYPICAL VACATION—Winners of fourth award in the typical family contest sponsored by the Boston American, The Barnes family of Weymouth today is enjoying a cost-free vacation at the New York World's Fair ... along with the other winning families. Here, Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Barnes, Milton, Jr., and Pauline are pictured after paying a friendly visit to the contest winners, the Arthur B. Maddisons, on the Fair grounds.

Ghost His Love Rival So Doctor Sues Wife

LOS ANGELES, July 25 (AP)—A ghost figured as co-respondent in a divorce trial before Superior Judge Thomas G. Gould today.

Dr. William A. Boyce, Hollywood eye specialist, in a cross-complaint to his wife's suit for divorce charged that Mrs. Boyce, becoming interested in Spiritualism, told him she had fallen in love with a spiritual soul-mate, "Sho-Sha," who had been with her in previous incarnations.

"Is it your intention to name a ghost as co-respondent?" Dr. Boyce was asked in a deposition.

"Yes," he replied. "My wife said she was much in love with 'Sho-Sha' as if he existed."

Dr. Boyce added in the deposition that Mrs. Boyce offered to obtain for him a soulmate named "Adina." He accompanied her to a seance and heard voices supposed to be those of George Washington, Robert Ingersoll, Huey Long and Will Rogers—"only when the trumpet was placed close to my face I could usually smell a human breath."

She Resents $13.60 Extra Age Pension

DES MOINES, Ia., July 25 (AP)—A wrathful Iowa old age pensioner wants to know why her monthly check was hiked to $26.60 when she was getting along very well, thank you, on $13.

"I am getting everything I need and keeping my doctor bill paid up and he is well pleased about it," she wrote the Senate Social Welfare Board.

"I asked the county investigator to let me have just $13 a month but I see he hasn't paid any attention to it. When $13 a month makes all I need, I don't know what he expects me to do with the rest.

"$26.60 is a little better than twice the amount I have been getting and that would make things pretty ugly for me."

State officials promised to see if they could not relieve her of the burdensome extra purchasing power.

Still WPA Man Found to Be Dead

He sat on the curbing outside city yards in Albany st. so still for such a long time this morning that presently fellow WPA workers went over to him.

They found Frederick Bartz, 48, of Greenville st., Roxbury, dead. Doctors at City Hospital, across the street, said he had died of a heart attack.

Garner Welcomed, But Keeps Silent

UVALDE, Tex., July 25 (AP)—Citizen John Nance Garner will cast his ballot in the state primary election Saaurday, but he doesn't have anything to say about politics. He arrived home yesterday and said he did not know when he and Mrs. Garner would return to Washington.

He was in a jovial mood as a crowd of more than 3000 greeted him.

Jehovahs Mum On Conscription

Objections to compulsory military training will not be officially recorded by Jehovah's Witnesses but will remain a personal issue for individual members. It was indicated today as the sect's five day convention began its second day's sessions at Jordan Hall.

Members generally agreed not to put the organization officially on record in opposition.

Swallows Fly 3 Months Early

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Cal., July 25 (AP)—The swallows of Capistrano have flown—off schedule again.

The birds, famous for the regularity of their annual arrival and departure, by century-long tradition desert their homes in the eaves of the old mission here and fly southward each St. John's Day, Oct. 23.

Last year they departed Aug. 11. This year, with a flurry of wings and a great last-minute chatter over the nests, they left months ahead of time.

"They disappeared early on the morning of July 16," said Father Arthur Hutchinson.

"At first we thought they had gone on some short flight. But we've waited over a week now, and they haven't come back."

Boston After Dark

a chance that Sportsman's Park, sold recently, is to be refurbished.

GRAHAM PRINCE is a brilliant young arranger for some of the leading orchestras and his work on Latin-style tunes is in great demand . . . His rumba arrangement of "Don't Let Your Love Go Wrong" was credited with pulmotoring that ditty into national standing as a solid hit . . . But Graham's chief interest is aviation . . . And half of the New York musicians are being made air-minded by the arranger . . . Mr. Prince has taken the steps necessary to spread his doctrine of "Fly now!" to the ranks of Mr. Petrillo's Boston local, and if you hear your favorite band-leader talking about a "dead stick landing," probably he will not be referring to his baton slipping from his fingers.

THE LATEST PRINCE opus is a correspondence course on how-to-fly-an-airplane . . . George C. MacKinnon, who collaborated with the musician on "Enchantress of the Night," is helping prepare the lessons (from the standpoint of typography only as Mr. MacK. is an amateur, but an ambitious one, in flying . . .) The Prince course is designed to be used in connection with actual lessons from a qualified instructor . . . The musician's powers of conversion, however, appear to be so real that a mild menace may exist . . .

WE QUOTE THE final sentence of a missive from Mr. MacKinnon: "After reading the first lesson, I wouldn't be afraid to take the controls in the air, at sufficient altitude, in case of need—and with considerable confidence" . . . As bitter as this department's one-time feud with Mr. MacKinnon may have sounded, this end of the controversy certainly—in its most antagonistic moments — never wished anything like the growth of this kind of "considerable confidence" in Mr. MacK . . . The whole business, we think, requires some discussing . . . We can't face the possible development of a similar sort of "considerable confidence" among the members of the Boston musicians' local . . . Canned music is all right—but only as a substitute.

Hedy Lamarr Permitted to Keep Adopted Son For Year

Children's Society Will Decide Then on Boy's Future

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 25—Grand news for Hedy Lamarr. She will be permitted to keep her adopted son, Jimmie, for a year, and at the end of that time the Children's Society will decide whether the little boy will have the dark-eyed movie star for his permanent mother.

I am very happy for Hedy that such a decision has been made for she has worried herself almost sick.

Gene Markey, who is separated from the glamour girl, is still very friendly with her and I have no doubt that he put in a word for his estranged wife. Certainly it is better for little Jimmie to have the devoted care of a woman who worships him and a home with every comfort.

The scribe who took the crack about Richard Greene's getting a lot of publicity about going to war when he is really going into another movie can eat those words! The 23-year-old 20th Centuyr-Fox hero leaves for Vancouver by train Sunday night to enlist.

No one at the studio knew a thing about it until Dick stopped by Darryl Zanuck's office and said he could not play in "Hudson Bay," the movie for which he was slated because he was leaving for the war.

The hot and heavy rumors that Vivien Leigh and Laurence Oliver has been signed by Jack L. Warner for "Captain Hornblower" are true in one respect. Laurence Oliver, I understand, is already signed, while Miss Leigh has not yet made her decision.

But it will not be surprising if she takes the lead opposite her favorite boy friend. The slogan for this sea epic is "The Pace That Launched a Thousand Ships"—a little steal on "face," but then never mind.

Warners are going in for these sea epics in a big way. Soon there will be James Cagney in "John Paul Jones." Oh yes, as we told you, Vivien and Laurence will be married in late August.

HEDY LAMARR, estranged wife of Gene Markey, has been given permission to keep her adopted son for a year.

Ski Epic for Trans-Lux

Blue ski capes against white snow would hardly fool a foe in ski warfare, but it fools the movie camera.

Philip Dorn, Edward Norris and some of the other players seen as ski soldiers in Universal's "Ski Patrol," coming to the Trans-Lux Theater Friday, wore blue ski capes at the request of Cameraman Milton Krasner. The snow used on sets was, of course, white.

Flavers wearing white clothing are difficult to light properly, according to Krasner, so many of the ski capes were dyed blue to prevent highlighting. On the screen the blue ski capes blend perfectly with the white snow backgrounds, and the new film demonstrates vividly the use of white uniforms as camouflage in ski wars.

HARDYS OBSERVE BIRTHDAY WITH NINTH FILM AT LOEW'S

Leaders Praise Screen Series

The likeable Hardy family are celebrating their third year on the screen with the showing of their ninth and latest film in the popular series, "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante."

Its opening today on Loew's State and Orpheum screens has inspired a flock of congratulatory telegrams from Gov. Saltonstall, Father Flanagan, celebrated head of Nebraska's Boys Town, and other local and national celebrities to Charles E. Kurtzman, northeastern divisional manager of Loew's.

Typical is Father Flanagan's wire:

"I hope the Hardy family series of pictures will have more birthdays. This fine series of pictures has a splendid influence upon the family life. I hope the Hardy family continues, and that Mickey will continue with it, and that Lewis Stone, as Judge Hardy, will continue the fine demonstration of the part a father should take in the life of the family."

And in this connection, Stone's Judge Hardy and Mickey Rooney's Andy Hardy have some more of those famous "man-to-man" talks in the course of their latest screen adventure which takes them to New York.

Back in Carvel, Andy has become smitten with the rotogravure pictures of a glamorous Manhattan debutante. When his one-sided romance is discovered by his home-town sweetheart and his chums, he answers their heckling by boasting that he really knows the debutante.

Diana Lewis (Mrs. William Powell off screen) is the deb in question and Andy turns New York upside down before he meets her.

"The Captain Is A Lady," is the second attraction.

MICKEY ROONEY finally catches up with his debutante (Diana Lewis) in "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante," now at Loew's State and Orpheum.

LEE TRACY and Linda Hayes provide love interest in "Millionaires in Prison," opening today at the RKO Boston.

Lee Tracy's Comeback Film Opens on Boston's Screen

Lee Tracy is back. The screen favorite of millions returns as the star of "Millionaires in Prison," sensational expose of crime behind the cold gray walls of many prisons, which had its first showing at the RKO Boston today.

Sharing feature honors on the Boston's new bill is "Black Diamonds," a romantic drama of the coal mine area starring Richard Arlen and Andy Devine.

"Millionaires in Prison" is an unusual play wound 'round racketeers who try to play some their old tricks behind prison bars.

Howard Benedict made the production for RKO Radio and the clever Leo McCarey directed. Raymond Walbourn, Morgan Conway, Truman Bradley and Linda Hayes are prominent.

In "Black Diamonds" Richard Arlen is the smart reporter who puts up a winning fight for law and order and also for the stunning girl portrayed by a newcomer named Kathryn Adams.

Raft, Grant, Dunne Star at Tremont

For the next three days Tremont screen is showing "House Across the Bay," with George Raft, Joan Bennett and Lloyd Nolan, and "The Awful Truth," a Cary Grant-Irene Dunne comedy hit.

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1940

THIS is a matrimonial year in Boston. The little gentleman with the butterfly wings and golden arrows is busier than ever.

Since last January, according to City Registrar James A. Burke, 4816 couples have obtained marriage licenses.

This is an increase of 293 over the number of the corresponding period in 1939.

Equally encouraging is the fact that every group seems to be represented in the romance parade.

The applicants are as apt to drive to City Hall in a battered roadster as in an expensive limousine—in fact, more apt.

Many explanations for Cupid's increased activity are offered.

Some say better employment conditions enable hundreds to realize their long-deferred marriage dreams.

Others claim that opposition to working wives is disappearing. Consequently, girls are going to the altar with the assurance that they will remain on payrolls.

A few cynics recall the situation in Canada, where a great many young men rushed into matrimony in the hope of avoiding the draft. The inference is that a comparable scramble is developing here in the face of compulsory military training.

All may be right and all may be wrong. Nobody can be entirely certain.

Meanwhile, we shall continue to attribute the boom in matrimony to our better New England climate, with its sunny days, moonlight nights and temperatures that encourage patronage at beaches, mountains and summer playgrounds.

Our New England weather has always been conducive to romance.

SHALL WE CLOSE our State Teachers' Colleges in accordance with the wishes of Governor Saltonstall and various taxpayers' associations?

Or shall we heed the protests of the institutions' graduates and friends and leave them open?

The decision of course rests with the Legislature. That is where the problem belongs and that is where it must be solved.

But the rest of us can and should study the arguments for and against the schools.

On one side, there is the claim that the supply of teachers greatly exceeds the number of jobs; that many Teachers' College alumni have waited vainly for as long as ten years for employment.

Opposing this is the evidence that 65 per cent of the graduates do obtain positions and they are thus more fortunate than scores of young people who attend some distinguished universities, where fewer than 50 per cent find profitable work immediately upon completion of their courses.

Foes generally complain that the Teachers' Colleges cost the State a million dollars a year—money that might well be used for tax reduction.

Here, again, the defenders take up their cudgels and reply that the saving would be less than five cents for the average home-owner.

Probably the most impressive of all arguments in the colleges' favor is that they are important instruments of democracy and necessary adjuncts to the national defense program.

Seldom tainted with foreign "isms" and founded on the theory that those who want education should obtain it, they embody the spirit of American education.

This should appeal powerfully to hesitant legislators.

MAN'S WORST ENEMY is not always another man. Dr. R. Shannon of the Rockefeller Foundation gives us thought-provoking proof.

While millions on this side of the Atlantic have been discussing the possibilities and probabilities of attack from abroad, a disastrous invasion of the Western Hemisphere has actually been taking place.

The invader is a little mosquito, scientifically known as the "anopheles gambiae."

Concealed in transatlantic airplanes he came, uninvited, from the jungles of Africa. And he has found a favorable breeding ground in the hot, swampy territories of Brazil, whence he threatens to move South and North, possibly to our own continent.

Harmless himself, he is nonetheless, the world's best carrier of malaria.

As a result, epidemics have been cropping up with alarming frequency in the coastal areas he infests, and the deaths of more than ten thousand Brazilians have been attributed to him.

The invasion was fortunately discovered in time. Every effort is now being made to prevent its reaching the Amazon region.

In the fight, Brazil is spending a million dollars and the Rockefeller Foundation is contributing an additional $250,000.

Man will undoubtedly succeed in resisting this attack, just as he has always succeeded in his wars against insects.

But it does serve to emphasize the important fact that no matter what occurs abroad, we in the Americas cannot afford to relax or suspend the health and medical campaigns, on which the lives of millions depend.

Some of the so called "pulp" magazines seem to be looking for authors to write "confessions" at rate of one cent a word Have you anything to confess? . . . Executive who has had many women work for him says the females get too wrapped up in business and are inclined to take their office worries home and bore people stiff with conversation regarding said worries.

IT IS SUGGESTED wives cease criticizing husbands at meal times thus arousing anger, that which is injurious to the digestive system. That Bing Crosby stop playing parts of young men just out of college. Mr. Crosby looks young but not as young as that. That automobile manufacturers consider the idea of putting the engine in the rear of the car and thus giving the driver a full view of the road ahead. That no woman weighing more than 125 pounds wear a red bathing suit.

MANY MEN born in small towns or cities have stayed there and made fortunes. I know a fellow who owns one of America's most successful independent service stations which is built on the ground where formerly stood the house in which he was born. On the other hand, many men have found success by leaving home. It is all a matter of judgment . . .

SINGING ACTOR BING CROSBY IN BOYISH POSE
He Should Stop Playing Young Men's Parts, Durling Says

This department's conscientious and studious attempt to understand women is meeting with little success. I am on the verge of discouragement. What my research leads me to suspect receives no confirmation from the feminine sex to make it official. For instance, it seems women rarely are really fond of one another. They are envious, jealous and harshly critical of those they have no hesitation in calling their "dearest friends." Why is this?

IN THE WINTER Kate Smith broadcasts from the beautiful living room of her Park Ave. Manhattan apartment. In the Summer, Kate warbles to the world from an especially built studio on the grounds of her Summer estate on the shores of Lake Placid. Seems a good idea. Surely a song bird should be able to sing better in beautiful surroundings . . . Speaking of singing, I have a telegram from San Francisco reading: "Never mind who was the first crooner, what we are anxious to find out is who will be the last crooner" . . . Robert Ingersoll's rule for a successful marriage: "Give to others the same rights you claim for yourself" . . . Selah means a pause as a rest in music . . . The funnies said to be read by 87 per cent of newspaper subscribers in normal times have become even more popular during these days of war and war threats.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, July 25—Ever since he came home, the President has been busy coping with cases of books and ship models. Some day, I imagine, they will find their proper places in the new library, but at present nobody knows just where to unpack them.

I was much interested in rummaging through the library basement the other day to come across an ice-boat, which had been to me a legend. It still has the name "Icicle" on the bow, and it is easy to see from its lines why my husband could tell me of its racing success on the Hudson river in winter.

When I think of all the work which has to be done before anything is on exhibition, I wonder if the library will be open next spring as they now plan. I have had some interesting talks with Ambassador Bullitt and I hope that he will find ways of telling other people as vividly as he has told me some of the recent history which he has lived through.

MY HUSBAND says that, on hearing of Mrs. Forbes' death the other day, the Ambassador said: "I wonder if there will be in the next generation any women as great as those produced in Mrs. Forbes' generation. She talked to me one evening at dinner about the origin and roots of words in the Turkish language and turned to her neighbor on the other side and discussed the conformation and points of polo ponies."

Mrs. Forbes knew more about history than most historians. She had met people from all parts of the world and, at 90, kept her interest in everything that was going on. She maintained a serenity of spirit which made her remain in Paris, in the face of possible bombing, with complete calm until she had completed her arrangements and could leave without any fuss or hurry.

They are remarkable characters, these women of that older generation. I am afraid the rest of us are going to seem somewhat uninteresting in comparison, but, then, most of us have lived through a less interesting period.

There may be situations ahead of us, however, which will develop what latent powers we may have and make us more interesting in retrospect to our grandchildren.

Miss Helen Ferris, of the Junior Literary Guild, had luncheon with us Tuesday and gave me a most interesting account of the successes and problems encountered in choosing and distributing books for the various age groups of young people.

I think the most valuable thing accomplished by the Guild is awakening in our people the desire to own books of their own and frequently to read books because they come addressed to them. The children might not read them under any other circumstances.

KNUDSEN DISCARDS FORMALITY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 25—The War Dept. in Washington, where form and tradition always have been adhered to, is shedding some of its formality because of William Knudsen. The 'phone operators and secretaries there, accustomed to stalling with incoming callers until the caller himself, and not his secretary, gets on the phone, already are reconciled to Knudsen's changes. Knudsen calls the War Dept. himself and is put through immediately. He never asks for "the Assistant Secretary," nor for "Mr. Louis Johnson." The operators recognize his call: "Is Louis there?"

NAME: At a recent Hollywood party, a newly-arrived guest was introduced to a group assembled in a corner. "This is Richard Rodgers," the introducer began, "and Mrs. Richard Rodgers; Lela Rogers and her daughter, Ginger Rogers; and this is Buddy Rogers." . . . He then told the newcomer: "I didn't quite catch your name" . . . "My name," the guest informed, somewhat disheartedly, "is Rogers—Roy Rogers."

GINGER ROGERS

PRIDE: Arnold Schonberg, the composer, has a 2½-year-old son, for whom he made a small fiddle less than 12 inches long . . . The boy was brought before some of Schonberg's friends, and began scratching his bow across the home-made fiddle, unfrightened by the strange screechy noises which resulted . . . "Isn't it wonderful?" Schonberg beamed. "An infant—and already he's improvising."

ENTERPRISE: Eleanor Roosevelt influenced Jimmy in his decision to abandon his plans to produce "The Bat" for his Globe Productions. Jimmy did not renew his option on this story, which was to have been his first presentation . . . When Lillian Hellman saw Eleanor Roosevelt, the First Lady asked the playwright: "Frankly, what do you think of Jimmy's plan to make 'The Bat?'" . . . "Frankly," said Miss Hellman, "that was disappointing—doing a revival of an old story, as his first picture, when so much is expected of him" . . . "You're quite right," Mrs. Roosevelt agreed. "That's the way I feel about it, too."

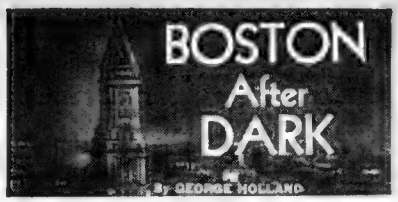
QUALITY: Larry Adler, who opened at the Waldorf's Starlight roof Monday, has spent ten years in touring throughout the world. Monday his brother came to N. Y. to visit him. "Have I changed any?" Larry asked him. "Has all this travelling made me any different?" . . . "Yes, there is a change," his brother assured. "You say 'Thank you' too darn much."



EXCLUSIVE: Sleek and lovely Betty Grable, the past winter's toast of New York for her work in "Du Barry Was a Lady," was booked into a Boston hospital for an engagement beginning Tuesday . . . A "minor operation" was scheduled to be performed by a prominent local surgeon . . . An air-conditioned room was being refitted (in blue for Betty's coming . . . If Betty has not arrived already, your reporter is prepared to announce, in spite of the deep silence expected to prevail at the hospital, that the beautiful dancer's arrival will be any hour now.

AS THE WORLD KNOWS, BETTY ONCE was married to Jackie Coogan . . . Their romance foundered after an unsuccessful personal appearance tour featuring both, but with the erstwhile "The Kid" of Chaplin's pictures getting first billing . . . The Coogan-Bernstein financial feud didn't help matters much . . . But Jackie is reported to be madly in love with his former wife . . . Miss Grable's startling success as the show-stealer of a Bert Lahr-Ethel Merman extravaganza thrust her squarely in the spotlight's focus again, and her recent picture in Hollywood was made on a basis which netted her a mild fortune.

THE CHOICE OF A BOSTON HOSPITAL was decided upon as an alternative to a Hollywood or New York theater of operations (literal), because privacy seemed almost assured and a gushing public would not "darling" Betty to death with its sympathy . . . (A year ago she would not have been bothered very much) . . . It is thought that a group of Boston friends prevailed upon Miss Grable to come here for the ordeal . . . In naming neither the hospital nor the surgeon, this corner is doing its mite to promote the privacy the pretty principal desires.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: As the captain at the Stork Club in Manhattan early today adjourned to a telephone to call Mrs. Winchell's boy Walter, Ira Hamilburg, the Squire of Larch Hill Farms (Brookline and Meredith, N. H.) had the same notion of communication over a longer distance of ground . . . Accordingly, unless the meeting was witnessed by other friends or scouts of newspapermen-about-to-go-to-press—friends or scouts with a sense of news-values, we may have something interesting of a social nature to report a few hours ahead of the opposition . . . Ira telephoned this desk, with this news:

AMBASSADOR WILLIAM C. BULLITT, Postmaster and Mrs. James A. Farley, one of the charming Farley daughters, and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., all were ringsiding at the same table at the Stork Club for supper and refreshments . . . Mr. Hamilburg, incidentally, was Storkclubbing with Jerry Brady, Alfred Vanderbilt's pal and a familiar figure on the Eastern tracks . . . Mr. Brady was about to fly to Chicago on a matter of business, and as his business is that of installing a famous brand of totalisator machines, there is

M-G-M TO CO-STAR RAFT, SHEARER

George Raft

HOLLYWOOD, July 25—You can discount all the dizzy rumors that George Raft is sending orchids to Marlene Dietrich, jumping off planes to see show girls and making dates with this one and that one. The Raft-Shearer romance has never been hotter. In fact it is so torrid that come next September Norma and George will be co-starred in "The World We Make," the Sidney Kingsley play. While the stage play wasn't what you might call a smash hit, the book, "The Outward Room" by Millen Brand, is really worthwhile. George has the right to make outside pictures and so his M-G-M deal is all set for September. Meanwhile Norma, Doris and Mervyn Leroy are heading for Saratoga Tuesday to spend the month of August. It doesn't take a Solomon to prophesy that George will join them after he finishes his personal appearance session in New York. Mervyn will direct the romancers and Hunt Stromberg will produce, so you see, this will be a very special movie.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

JIM TRAVERS had finished his work at the office earlier than usual and decided that it was a great afternoon to take the wife and kiddies to the beach.

Come to think of it, they hadn't been out together for quite a time.

He ran up the stairs to the apartment and as he opened the door he heard his wife talking on the telephone.

"YES, HELEN," she was saying, "I tell you I'm fed up and I'm leaving. He's the most annoying man and has no consideration for the children. He doesn't seem to feel that we have any rights at all. This is final and I've stood him as long as I can."

Jim closed the door softly. He thought, "I must have failed some how. I'd no idea that Joan felt this way."

He remembered now that the boys had asked for cowboy suits and he had made some sort of an excuse. Of course, it was only that he was trying to save so he could buy a cottage where they could all really live and Joan could have a flower garden.

Well, he would make one last effort to atone. He couldn't afford to lose his family. They were very dear to him.

He went quietly down the stairs and out of the house.

Later, Jim returned with an arm full of bundles. His wife opened the door.

"Why Jim," she exclaimed, "what in the world is this?"

"Flowers and candy for you, dear, and those cowboy suits the boys have been wanting."

"But Jim, you shouldn't have done this; you really can't afford it."

"Nonsense my dear. Nothing is too good for my family."

"JIM," his wife said affectionately, "you're so thoughtful and such a wonderful husband and father. When I compare you with that annoying and inconsiderate man—."

"What man?"

"That man across the hall in the next apartment. Of course he's a bachelor and doesn't understand children at all. He's always finding fault and Jim—we've got to leave here. I'm sure we can find another place."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ONIONS, okra and tomatoes . . . garlic, egg plant, lamb . . . crushed wheat and olive oil—simple things, aren't they? Things as common to any housewife as butter and bread. And, all too often, as monotonously mixed.

But it's amazing what you can do with common things if you leaven them with imagination.

Sitting there in the Iraq Pavilion at New York's World's Fair, watching the twilight softening, dissolving that marvel of ivory and crystal into amethyst smoke, I thought of that; of how we, ourselves, could work wonder in the common stuff of our own lives if we'd only use the magic that lies within us. Going back to that business of cooking—

ONIONS, tomatoes and egg plant . . . chick peas, lamb and olive oil . . . nothing more ordinary on the pantry shelf. And from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate most of us serve them in the same old stupid way. Just chow. But they weren't "just chow" there in that Iraq Pavilion. They were Kufta and Baba Ghanouge, Shish-kabab, Bourghal, Baked Kibby, Halwa, Baklawa. Names to conjure with.

Names as old as the wanderings of man, sprung from that ancient soil where the Garden of Eden lay, so they say.

Old. Old. Yet new as today when you dip your unleavened bread into the Shish-kabab that might have simmered over any shepherd's fire. Lamb stew, you'd call it today. And lamb stew it is—but something else, something more.

For there's a taste to this and all the other dishes which no common stew or hot dogs ever had.

Perhaps it's the sesame seeds—they use them in almost everything. Or the rice that's soaked in butter before it's boiled. Or the white, sharp inner pulp and juice scraped from the bark of cherry and mulberry trees. Or the flavor of vine leaves in which some of the meat dishes are wrapped . . . leaves so young they are still furry on the under side.

NOTHING EXOTIC about any of these ingredients, nothing we might not procure easily for our own kitchens. The trick comes in putting them together . . . in using ordinary things extraordinarily . . . Dramatizing the commonplace . . . extracting its full tang and flavor. Tackling your daily chore as if it were an adventure instead of drudgery.

Amazing what a difference such an attitude makes in one's life. . . .

U.S. CUTS RED TAPE FOR WAR ORPHANS

The movement to shelter Europe's evacuated children in the United States has become nation-wide.

Suggested more than a month ago by the Boston American, working in co-operation with the Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser, it now receives strong support in the government at Washington.

Three red tape has been cleared by immigration officials to permit the mass movement of children to this country. Visas are now obtainable in less than 24 hours from the time the proper documents are submitted.

Also two measures to permit the sending of American ships to get the children are pending before the House foreign affairs committee, and Senator Carter Glass is preparing similar legislation to offer in the Senate.

Simultaneously word comes from London that funds to pay passages and expenses for the poorer children are on hand, and that machinery for selecting them has been set up.

Encouraged by Development and confident that children will soon arrive here from Britain in sufficiently large numbers to give every responsible applicant a child, hundreds write daily to the editor of the American.

Their letters, as have more than 3500, go to Washington, where the names and adreases of all persons wanting the children are placed in the hands of Lord Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States, and various American official's and agencies.

Interesting letters in today's mail say:

BROCKTON — "My husband and I would very much like to adopt a war orphan. We have no children of our own. We would prefer a little girl about two or three years of age. She would have the advantages of a good home, religious training and liberal education."

ARLINGTON — "My husband and I will be very happy to adopt two war orphans, a girl and a boy. We have a son ten years of age and he would also enjoy having a little sister and brother.

"We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to you for the wonderful work you have begun."

SOMERVILLE—"We have four children of our own, all grown up. We would like to do our part in this most charitable campaign by adopting a little girl or caring for her for the duration of the war. We have a good home and can afford to provide for the child adequately."

SOUTH BOSTON—"My husband and I would be pleased to take a little boy, preferably of Dutch or Belgium parentage. There must be several of those nationalities among the children Britain is sending to the United States.

"We have never been blessed with a son of our own, and this would give us an opportunity to achieve the happiness we have hoped for vainly for years."

NEW BEDFORD—"I have six children, three girls and three boys. But I am not so busy or hard-pressed that I could not take another child and give it a mother's love. So, as soon as the little ones arrive here in large numbers from British ports, please use your influence with the English and American authorities to see that one is placed with me.

"My own children are strong, healthy and intelligent. I have tried to be a good mother. I would do the same for the baby from abroad."

ROXBURY—"Please add our names to the long list of New Englanders who want to take war orphans and refugee children. We would dearly love to have a little girl with blond hair and blue eyes. You see, our own little girl who died three months ago was light complexioned.

"Because we are of the Jewish faith, we would like a child of that belief."

1000 Children to Sail In Unconvoyed Ships

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—A thousand British children—from poor and well-to-do alike—are destined to leave within the next few weeks in unconvoyed ships for the safety of the United States.

The United States committee for the care of European children said a blanket authorization for the transfer had been issued by the State Department upon assurance the children would not become public charges.

Those selected are to be taken in the order they are found on a list of some 200,000. Committee Chairman Marshall Field said British authorities were instructed to

Sausages Are Always Good

By MARTHA LEE

Fluffy mashed potatoes with deliciously flavorful country sausage is the type of cooking that "mother used to do." It's bound to make a hit with friend husband, be he 21 or 60.

Sausage is an American favorite. At all times of the year one can obtain fresh sausage which with less trouble than it takes to tell, can become a real temptation to anyone near the kitchen. Keep it in mind during hot summer weather when you start racking your brains for "something that would really taste good."

Sausage links can be cooked successfully in a number of ways. Sausage properly cooked is well rounded and evenly shaped. It should be whole-skinned and golden brown. Sausage, if you would make the most of it, should in all events be cooked thoroughly to its very center.

WAY TO COOK SAUSAGE

A cooking method which gives excellent results makes use of steam. The links are put in a cold skillet with several tablespoons of water. Cover and steam them thoroughly for about five minutes. If any water remains at the end of this period, pour it off and brown the links slowly, turning as necessary for even browning.

This method is most appropriate for the small link sausage. The sausage pictured here today, sometimes called Country Sausage, is slightly larger than the customary link sausages and requires a longer period of cooking.

OVEN METHOD

When a large quantity is being prepared at one time, another method often used is the oven method. This is very easy and very successful. Merely put the sausage on a rack in an open pan and in an oven of 325 deg. F. Let it roast until thoroughly done to its very center. This will take from 45 to 50 minutes, but since the sausage requires no attention during this time, its convenience is a great asset. If you are preparing sausage in quantities, the carefree oven method is a godsend.

There is nothing spectacular about mashed potatoes and country sausage. It's wholesome, appetizing food—a little on the old-fashioned variety. It's one of those dishes you find yourself craving again after a short time.

The food can be served attractively without any bother at all, and is as good as it looks in the picture.

MASHED POTATOES WITH COUNTRY SAUSAGE

1½ lbs. potatoes
1 lb. country style pork sausage links
3 tbsp. butter
1½ tsp. salt
About ½ cup hot milk or cream
Chopped parsley

Wash and pare potatoes; cook until tender in rapidly boiling salted water. Meanwhile, cook sausage until done as described and keep hot. Drain and mash potatoes; add butter, salt and hot milk, and beat vigorously until potatoes are smooth, creamy and fluffy. Pile on hot platter and arrange around potatoes. Sprinkle potatoes with chopped parsley and top with a pat of butter. Serve immediately.

THIS DISH of mashed potatoes and country sausage, cooked by either of the methods given here today, tastes as good as it looks.

Show Your Appreciation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband, my two-year-old baby, and I are about to go to spend a week-end at the home of an old friend of my husband's. I have not met these people, and my husband does not know the wife.

1—Should I take the wife a gift when I go for the visit? Or should I send it after I return home? Should I take a gift for their baby?

If you do suggest that I take a gift, what type of gift, under the circumstances, would you suggest?

2—Also if you do tell me to take a gift, when would be the proper time for me to present it? Also the baby's gift? MARIAN.

1—This is such a particularly hospitable invitation that I think you should be thoughtful about the ways that would show your appreciation.

So I suggest that you not only take gifts with you, one for the hostess and one for the baby, but that you also send a gift with the thank-you letter that you will write after you return home. The gift that you take with you would have to be on the impersonal side—a box of candy, or a box of assorted hors d'oeuvres or crackers or small jars of jams and jellies—something that would be in the category of a gift to the household.

Then, during your visit, keep your eyes open to choose something that you see would be especially welcomed by the hostess, something either for her personal use or for her home. This gift should be an important gift, as consequential as you can afford. And it should be sent with your "bread-and-butter" letter.

Also, take some toy or other appropriate gift for the baby.

2. Give both gifts to the hostess soon after you arrive.

You Can Be Beautiful

Waterproof 'Cover-Up' For Face or Body Blemishes

By ARLINE GOULD

WE'VE BEEN in such a tizzy about helping would-be beach beauties cover up every last sign of tiny line, freckle or facial blemish with the smart new glamourizers that we've overlooked the deeper problem of body-complexion blemishes that keep many a swim fan off the beach.

But to remind us that there is definitely an answer to such a problem . . . for discolored skin on hands or legs, vein markings, and even scarlines (if they're not too deep) . . . comes news of a wonderful new waterproof version of the most famous blemish coverer in the world.

It was formulated to completely disguise birthmarks . . . and while it was slightly impervious to water, it didn't have the wonderful property of the improved "mark coverer."

In cream form, and in several shades so you can match your own skin perfectly, it is a distinctive aid. We can't say in perfect truth that all it requires is a mere whisk to apply it . . . but we can say that once you've applied it, you'll be incredulous and amazed by its staying ability. Men can take advantage of this aid, as well as girls.

In applying, you'll find the cream so clinging that you'll have to do it rapidly. You rub it well into the skin, then gently smooth it over the blemish, taking an inch beyond the edges of the blemish on all sides . . . this will fade the cream into the unblemished skin, so even you will find it difficult to judge where the blemish actually is!

Naturally, the waterproof cream should be used on the face for swimming, if that's where your problem locates itself.

If you'd like to learn about this new waterproof "mark cover-up" for face or body blemishes, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Beauty School Romance

By Alissa Keir

MARJORIE MOORE fiercely pushed her fingers through the curls that had been so immaculately dressed yesterday by Toni Martini, until the little cluster of them—like an old-fashioned nosegay in the middle of her forehead—stood on end.

"That's better," she said with a sigh of relief. She was so bored with having every hair of her head in its right place. The clock on the wall showed it was 8:30. She'd have to hurry with the stint of sweeping the cloak room, littered with the denis left by last night's pupils of the Elite School of Beauty Culture. In half an hour the girls would be bringing her their coats and hats to check.

Not that Marjorie was sorry for herself. Certainly not! She couldn't get over her good luck in being allowed to work her way through one of the best training schools in the country. Beauty shop owners respected a diploma from the famous Elite School—so one was practically sure of a job after graduating from it.

And a job she certainly must have—before Grannie's money in the savings bank gave out. Sweet old Grannie, who had taken her when she was a baby, after her parents had been killed in an automobile accident.

It was a little while now since she'd gone to the sumptuous Elite offices to inquire diffidently about fees, to find the course would cost $250.

"Two hundred and fifty dollars," she had echoed in dismay. Tears of disappointment came to her eyes.

Miss Perkins, a director of the school, happened to be at the information desk. She looked at Marjorie appraisingly. This small blonde girl exuded a forthrightness giving an added value to her beauty, she reflected. Obviously she had been reared as a gentle-woman. Miss Perkins was of the opinion that they needed more girls of Marjorie's type to send out as typical Elite graduates.

"Take off your hat," she commanded with a quiet smile. "Perhaps we'll be able to do something for you anyway." She put out her hand to examine the texture of Marjorie's hair.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

"It's good and strong," was the verdict. "How would you like to earn your way through our course?" she asked. "You'd have to act as model for the pupils attending the hairdressing lectures—and we need somebody to help in the check room. Think you'd like to do it?"

Would she! Marjorie thanked her excitedly. It seemed too wonderful to be true.

It was arranged that one week she'd attend classes during the day session while she worked for the school during the evening session. The following week she'd attend school nights and be at the school's disposal for the day.

No denying, it left her little rest—even if Grannie did undertake the housework and the laundry, including a crisp, clean white uniform every other day. The Elite course was renowned for its thoroughness and there was a written examination to pass each month on the "scientific" angles of the work as well as the practical end.

Marjorie had always been a good student. They were pleased with her progress.

It was a gay little world of its own in which she found herself. Although more boys than girls enrolled each year, the mixture was sufficient to give the school a tinge of co-educational campus atmosphere. There'd be signs of a flirtation here and there, but Miss Perkins frowned severely on what she termed "goings-on." These were not permitted and sternly squelched with veiled threats of expulsion.

Knowing this strict rule, it particularly irked Marjorie to find herself being followed around by Tommy Martin. Tommy was stocky and dark—most of the girls thought him very handsome indeed. Tommy was born with a genius for hairstyling, and the school recognized his extraordinary talent. They knew, too, the good advertisement Tommy would be for them, so he was able to get away with murder, the students grumbled.

AMBITIOUS LAD

"I'm going to be called a great artist, Baby," he'd boast to Marjorie when he had her cornered so that she couldn't get away from him. "You watch—directly I'm through here I'll get myself a job at Blank's, Fifth ave."

"Why, Tommy," Marjorie would say indignantly, "you know you'll need a lot of experience before Blank's will take you on."

"That's what you think. I bet after I do one head for them, they'll jump at the chance of getting me—and at my own figure." Marjorie could only shrug her shoulders at the conceit of him.

"I'll stay at Blanks for a while until the war in Europe is over and then I'll go to France. Queens and Princesses will ask for me," he'd boast. "You'll be along, too, kid, because we're going to Paris on our honeymoon."

The Cast of Characters in "Beauty School Romance"

MARJORIE, who is working her way through a beauty school.

TONI, who insists he will marry Marjorie.

BILL, who also has ideas about Marjorie.

She'd firmly take away the arm that so often uncomfortably squeezed her waist. "I wish you'd understand, I'm never going to marry you, because I don't love you. There are lots of other girls, Tommy—"

Scarcity of money made it necessary for her and Grannie to keep practically entirely to themselves. Marjorie therefore had not come in contact with much masculinity and it dumfounded her when her attitude only seemed to egg Tommy on to more and louder protestations of his love for her. Men must be rather horrible creatures, she decided.

That is to say until Bill Dwyer had appeared in class one morning. Bill was tall and although his shoulders were broad he had the small hips of the athlete. The girls—except Marjorie—would giggle about him while they smoked their cigarette in the rest room. It was difficult to imagine Bill standing, comb in hand, saying, "What can I do for Madame?"

He did well with his written exams. He was horribly clumsy, however, when it came to twisting tiny strips of hair into curls around the fingers of those large hands that—much to her horror—made Marjorie tingle from head to foot, when she modelled for him.

From the first there was a wall of dislike between him and Tommy Martin. Tommy made no bones about his contempt for Bill's work. Bill, on the other hand, completely ignored Tommy's existence.

The situation was probably made more tense because Marjorie would try to convince Bill that it was really easier to stick a pin through a curl than a woman's skull.

"But you'll never be much good do you think, Bill? Isn't there anything else you could do for a living?" she suggested pityingly one day. He grinned and asked her to come out to lunch so they could talk about the idea.

He took her to Busby's. "Bill what's the idea of being so extravagant?" she'd expostulated after the head waiter had shown them to a comfortable seat.

"A GRAND PERSON"

"I wanted a quiet place—I've got something to ask you," he spoke more seriously than was his habit. "To come to the point, Marjorie, what's between you and this lord Tommy something-or-other, who never seems to leave you alone."

"Nothing—he just imagines he has a yen for me. He'll get over it."

"But it sure must be annoying to have him maul you around, Bill muttered.

"There just isn't much I can do about it but hope he'll get a crush on some other girl at school," she changed the subject to persuading Bill to make other plans for his future.

"You're a grand person," he smiled, "albeit a trifle serious for one so young."

From then on although he never embarrassed her, Bill's shoulders seemed always in the background when Tommy approached her and his attentions seemed a little more subdued as time went on. She hoped it meant that he was getting over his feeling for her, when he sauntered into the cloak room one morning, before school opened.

"What are you doing here, Tommy?" she was frightened. "You'll only get me in trouble—you know you're not allowed in here."

"I never get a chance of talking to you any more with that fool Dwyer around." He seized her roughly, pushing her against the wall. "You haven't got Dwyer standing by this time." Tommy said fiercely, "and I'm going to—"

He never finished the sentence for suddenly Bill Dwyer was in the room, hitting out with those big fists of his, until Tommy was one the floor with one eye closed and a bleeding nose.

"D'ye know, darling, it dawned on me this morning as I'd that your little pal might try and catch you here some time before the others got in. Lucky thought, eh what?" he said.

Marjorie wasn't, tears. Not only because she'd never seen a fight before but it meant that she and Bill would be expelled in disgrace. This was the end of her dream of being in a beauty parlor.

BILL EXPLAINS

She was trying to tell this to Bill, as they sat in his gray sports model that was parked a block or two away from the school. She had been too upset to wonder how he owned the keys that belonged to anything so magnificent.

"Don't you see, Bill, I've simply got to look after Grannie. She has always looked after me."

"But Grannie can come and stay with us." Bill pulled her on the steering.

"What would we live on, Bill? You can't even make curls," she laughed weakly.

"Listen, my sweet." Bill took her hand. "You didn't really suppose I went to be a hairdresser. See I got sent over there—" he pointed. "For I was in preparations for the Test" it bunked over and over again.

"Dwyer's hair tonics were invented by my grandfather," Bill went on. "He left me a trust fund with more money than you and Grannie and I can decently use. I promised Dad to go into the business after I'd majored in chemistry and we both thought it a good idea for me to learn something about hairdressing in the raw, before working on a new wave lotion. Hence you found me at the Elite School."

He kissed her gently on the cheek. "Suppose we go and see Grannie," he said. "She might be interested in meeting her grandson-in-law, don't you think?"

THE END.

"Don't miss "Old Doc," Charles McGuirk's amusing story on this page tomorrow.

"You haven't got Dwyer standing by this time." Tom said fiercely "and I'm going to—"

Jobless Husband Cooks, Wife Works---Solution?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My problem is a peculiar one. I don't want a divorce and am not in love with anyone else, nor is my husband unfaithful.

We've been married twelve years, and until two years ago my husband provided for us in a rather meager way. He lost his job and eighteen months ago I secured a position where I am still employed.

I've given up nagging my husband to get a job because it gets me nowhere. He stays home and keeps house, and although my love for him has turned to contempt I cannot bring myself to "throw him out" as I tell that our son of ten years needs his father.

When I come home and find my husband comfortably smoking, I doubt whether he makes any real effort to find work. Our little boy knows nothing of this domestic turmoil, as he and his father are pals. Can I sue for non-support?

WORRIED.

Your case suggests a very successful novel written by a popular author some years ago, under the title of "The Helpmeet." The case was identical with yours. The woman brought home the bacon and the man cooked it. There were arguments before the couple agreed to this solution.

Some women would be willing to accept the arrangement, especially if the husband is a good cook and neat housemaid, though what we regard as an innate sense of the fitness of things puts the man in an undignified position. If he has no job you could hardly sue him for non-support. With the war making jobs easier to obtain, it is probable, if he tries hard enough, he will be able to secure one.

No Job, So He Can't Come Over

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There's a certain young man, one year older than I am, who has been coming to see me. He has confessed that he likes me a great deal, and I feel the same about him. However, he is out of work at present, and says that if he can't take me out at least once a week he won't see me at all.

I'm willing to just walk in the park, or stay at home and listen to the radio, and told him so. But he won't give in, and is determined to stop coming over.

I'm sure if he had a job he'd ask me to marry him. BETH.

There are plenty of men who have this stubborn sort of pride. But, my dear girl, put yourself in his place. The worst thing about unemployment is not the hardship it entails, but a feeling of degradation that goes with it. Perhaps he won't stop coming after all. Just let him know that he will always be welcome whenever he comes. Invite him to dinner or Sunday night supper occasionally. I hope he has a job before long.

Heat Relief for Entire Nation

By the Associated Press

The prolonged heat wave showed signs of cracking today as a mass of cool air advanced from the northwest.

Cooler air began moving eastward last night, bringing relief to Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas, and parts of Minnesota.

Forecasters said the air mass would overspread the upper Mississippi valley and Great Lakes region by tomorrow night and should be felt all the way to the Atlantic seaboard by Saturday.

Thunderstorms promised temporary relief today for most of the Middle West and much of the East. Temperatures, however, remained abnormally high from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

At least 217 deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the torrid spell, more than a week old in some sections. More than a half dozen persons were killed by lightning.

Bugs'd Take Over This Job!

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

When a national convention has labored and brought forth its presidential candidate, all the boys flee to the hills, hollering: "The last one over the fence is the Vice-President."

That's one angle we could never pick our teeth with. It's a pretty nice job with good pay, and the hours depend on whether you wind your wrist watch or not.

But nobody ever seems to want it, and we finally figured out the probable reason. It's something like being an organ grinder's monkey. You hear good music, you are outdoors, but you can never go into business for yourself.

But if those fellows don't want the job we will take it up and tip our hat with both hands and pick up the pennies with our feet.

We claim the job of being Vice-President is the ideal way of solving the unemployment problem without working up a lather.

Auto Gossip

By OTTO SCOOPS

Early returns for July indicate that there is still a possibility that this month will exceed retail sales over June. All factors point to good business for the future. Prediction for the second half of this year is that sales will be up 20 per cent over the same period of a year ago. The automotive industry has been the life-blood of this country, and from all the good reports we receive it will continue the same way . . . Tom McManus, genial prop. Wayland Motors, says the public like his "Lucky 7" sale. It's going over big . . . We welcome back Harold Horn, GMC, on his return to work. We hope his vacation was restful because he was a pretty tired fellow when he left . . . Fenton Motors, Watertown, is enjoying good business. Many Roach says much of the credit is due to advertising in these papers . . . Was that Shirley Rubin of Homestead Motors that we saw stepping the light fantastic at Weber Duck Inn? . . . Newton Buick Co.'s sale of UC's so far this week are tremendous . . . Charlie Batchelder, Watertown Pontiac, is spending all of his spare time on his cabin cruiser "Rebel II, 2nd" . . . Fred Cahill, Newton Motor Sales, is down Maine taking his easy fishing and retin, well . . . Jimmy Annacone of the Lang Agency of the Community Pontiac Annacone, has his cabin cruiser, "The Wanderer" on the Charles River. When he spends most of his spare time . . . Selling Reardon and Westward, Keating Ford dealers, we learn that Jimmy Reardon has his yacht "Satuit" floating again . . . Joe Cane of the same outfit thinks everything is sanctimonious, and Al Maltz, golfer par excellent, says his average is 80 for his golf game . . . Fred Burton and Jimmy Francesco have severed their relationship. Fred is taking over Imperial Motor Sales entirely . . . Ed Batsun, proxy of Community Pontiac in Brighton, is torn between two desires. One is to remain in town and cash in on an active market and the other is to leave on his vacation . . . Arthur Murray of Hub Chev. is busy selling many cars in spite of lazy weather . . . Bill Hurwitz, Eric Motors, has so many cars on display he's convinced cannot hold them all. Bill's confident that used cars are going to be higher and is more than pleased with the fact he has such a large stock . . . Wexler Bros., Princeton Garage, Allston, are doing well in their UC sales. The brothers are more than pleased . . . Jack Hurley, Jordan Place Motors, Cambridge, certainly spins some great fish stories to partner Al Shuman. Partner Clarence Carven took a surprise trip to New York . . . The Wolfe Boys at Capitol Motors, Cambridge, are plenty busy delivering the many UC they are selling . . . Nate Segal, Brighton Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, longs for a few days of rest, but the big has been perking so well that it's not possible right now . . . Back Bay Motors have changed their location on Boylston St. to 1280 . . . Jack Karas, Karas Motor Sales, takes advantage of this fine weather and spends much of his time in Maine . . . Stanley Sampson, South Shore UC adv. man of these newspapers, is vacationing on Cape Cod. . . .

Art Ross Tells Bruins To Serve in the Army

PARDON THE INTRODUCTION OF A CRASS NOTE of pessimism in these normally bright pages. But the worries of sport promoters and their artisan athletes are trivial troubles compared with those of a Nation at War.

AUSTEN LAKE

So here is Art Ross, the bench boss of the Bruins, mailing out letters to his hockey hirelings advising them to hustle into Canadian uniforms and serve out their compulsory three months' training in the army before ice forms and it is time for the gracial demantia next November.

Otherwise there may not be any big league hockey next winter and the big ark on top of the North Station will be minus its main meal ticket.

Canadian law requires every physically fit male betwix the ages of 18 and 40 to take 12 weeks military duty. Where feasible the conscripts are allowed to choose their own time, so that business may not be paralyzed. Thus Ross and his brother moguls of the National League have suggested that their athletes, (1) get it over quickly, or (2) arrange with Ottawa to defer service until the warm winds of spring blow and hockey is packed away in camphor chips.

There is a 50-50 possibility, say Canadian authorities, that there will not be any professional hockey next season.

* * *

Garden Takes Precautionary Steps

THE PROSPECTS OF NO HOCKEY is less of a hardship on the club owners than on the rink managers, to whom the teams pay a percentage of their turnstile receipts. For hockey has kept sport emporiums like the Boston Garden alive in late sport-starved years.

Thus Walter Brown, the producing brain of the Boston Garden, has been taking precautionary steps to keep his big ark busy in case the Bruins release their 24 home dates, having arranged to bring the American Jubilee—an historical pageant of U. S. Colonial Life, from the World's Fair for a week in early December. Following that he will bring Billy Rose's Aquacade and dig out the gigantic canvas container which he had made for his old, defunct Sportsman's Show and which in late years has been gathering mould in storage.

B. A. A. May Move Downtown

SOOOOO, THE SCATTERED FELLOWSHIP of the old B. A. A. may move into the quarters of the Boston Garden Club sometime next winter and occupy the rococo suite just abaft of the offices. Good news that, if it happens. For in memories' album, with recollections of Jack Dempsey, Man o' War, George V. Brown and a miscellany of old sport figures, there is a melancholy page devoted to the demise of the old B. A. A., which now maintains a few of its punctilious forms and traditions in a Back Bay hotel, a short yoo-hoo away from the rose brick building on Exeter street which, for 50 years, had been the B. A. A. homestead.

The old mansion with its wealth of bar crystal and mid-Victorian furnishings passed piece-meal into profane hands five years ago. Some went to boarding house keepers and some to the cave-of-the-winds gobble-and-gargle parlors. But many sentimental bits were bid in by elders like the latte George V. Brown, who bought barrels of dining-room crockery, kitchen pans and pantry ware, storing the stuff, to Mrs. Brown's disgust, in his Hopkinton barns and cluttering the cellar and attic. Not, he had said, that he expected to have any use for the material, but simply that he couldn't bear letting objects of such cherished association scatter among downtown feederies and be profaned by the hungry rabble.

For there was a sentimental streak running through the core of George's strict New England thrift. He, who could squeeze profits from the dry husk of such difficult businesses as the Arena and Boston Garden and frame a hard bargain, was a soft touch for unfortunate friends.

So, I recall how he and a handful of such loyalists as Dezzy Wadsworth, Hugh McGrath and Dr. Ross came to sit for a last communal moment while the brass-voiced auctioneers and the scavenging crows picked the B. A. A. corpse clean. A few others, like Bill Carcelon, Dr. Walter Kendall and Henry Lapham stood on the outer fringes, watching with resentment and vowing that their scattered legion would rally again. It did and if it finds a permanent home in the Garden it will restore a tradition that belongs to an old and cordial day of dear, but not yet dead, Boston.

Louis-Baer to San Francisco (?)

ON THE THEORY THAT NEW YORK will not stomach another Louis-Baer fight, recalling Max' derisive, dying swan gesture as he took the count in the other L-B travesty, Promoter Joe Jacobs is shopping further west. He may impose on Detroit's suckerism this time, but the wise word is that San Francisco will be his chump-trap.

Crosscup-Pishon's Post plans another All Star Redskins charity football game at Fenway Park on September 11, choosing George Marshall's ex-Bostonians again—and why? Principally because of George's "nuisance value" and the theory that Boston football fans, irked as Gorgeous George's antics as maestro of the team during its Fenway tenure, will pay some $30,000 in hope of seeing him licked . . . Says canny Wullie McKechnie, erstwhile Braves manager and now the cerebral impulse of the N. L. champion Reds, "Billy Werber is the smartest third baseman in either league. I wouldn't trade him for $75,000." Here then is the third sacker whom the Red Sox exiled to Connie Mack three years ago as an obnoxious trouble maker and irritating influence on the other adult Fauntleroys.

White Sox Fans Go Pennant Mad

CHICAGO, July 25—Six weeks ago the Red Sox came here to play the White Sox, swept the series, and looked like certain pennant winners. Today, these same Red Sox conclude a three-game series with the same White Sox but the situation is now reversed. It's the White Sox who look like pennant winners.

JULIUS SOLTERS

The Red Sox have lost their touch. Stepping away from the gate in April like two-year-olds, the Sox set the pace until well into June. But these past six weeks have been nightmares.

The White Sox on the other hand got away like a selling plater. Everybody had consigned them to the second division in pre-season forecasts, and that was where they seemed to belong.

DYKES SMART 'UN

They had lost their second baseman Jackie Hayes because of eye trouble. He hasn't played a game this year. They were weak at third. In the outfield they had lost Rip Radcliff, at present the league's leading hitter. And they had no pitching. They would do well if they could escape the cellar, it was figured.

But those same forecasters didn't figure Jimmy Dykes. The little round man has a habit of getting the very best out of his material, and he certainly has done a masterful job this season.

Instead of being far down in the second division where they were scheduled to be, the White Sox are a fighting fifth today, nine games behind the pace-setting Detroit Tigers and only three games behind the third place Red Sox.

RUEL HANDLES PITCHERS

They have won their last six games in a row, and it is not so much that they have won them as the manner in which they won them.

Harold "Muddy" Ruel, who once caught for the Red Sox, has been working miracles with the pitchers until now it is rated the best staff in the league. The Red Sox, on the other hand, haven't a pitcher they can depend to go the route. And pitching is still the most important item in baseball.

Young Bob Kennedy has come through at third base for the White Sox, and he wasn't even figured on last spring. Skeeter Webb has done a fairish job at second.

In the outfield, Julius Solters, who came to the White Sox for Radcliff, finally has blossomed

B'S MAKE SEER OF STENGEL

All season long, Casey Stengel has been prophesying that his young group of Bees would be a real ball club in August, and it looks as if he knew what he was talking about.

For the past three weeks, the club has been wrecked with injuries to key men, such as Max West and Rama Rowell. Rowell was out with a back injury, and the Bees infield does not operate so smoothly when the Alabaman is not at the keystone position.

But he's back there now, and the club is on even keel agin. Gene Moore, right fielder, also is in his old right field position, and if Max West was ready to go the Bees would be pretty well set.

ERRICKSON WINS

But West isn't ready yet, and there is no telling just when he will be. However, the club does all right without him, especially when they get a well pitched game.

They got one during the mid-week set-to with the Cubs, and came out on the long end of the score, 4-3.

Dick Errickson, club's leading hurler, was in the box, and though he was touched for 10 hits he was a bearcat in the pinches. He was helped immensely by his infield which completed three double plays, double plays they were not getting when Rowell was out of the lineup.

Rowell and the veteran Johnny Cooney were the stars of the day. Besides pivoting on an all-important twin killing, Rowell got three of the Bees' 13 hits and drove in the winning run. Cooney had a perfect day at bat, getting three singles and a double and knocking in two runs.

The Bees victim was none other than Claude Passeau of the Cubs, who previously had won four straight games.

SALVO TODAY

The winning run was scored in the seventh. Buddy Hassett led off with a single to right, and after Moore had flied out, Rowell tripled to the center field fence, scoring Buddy standing up.

It was Manny Salvo's turn today, and the long boy figured to beat the Cubs and give the Bees the odd game in this series of three.

Salvo was batted out of the box in his last start in Pittsburgh, but that is the only bad day he has had since he joined the club in the trade which sent Tony Cuccinello to the Giants.

This Red Sox and Giants discard appears to have all the stuff necessary for a 15-game winner, and with Errickson, Javery and Posedel going well, one can understand why Stengel is looking forward to the rest of the campaign with enthusiasm.

Soose Defeats Title Holder

SCRANTON, Pa., July 25 (INS)—Billy Soose scored a split decision over Ken Overlin, recognized as middleweight champion in New York and California, in a ten-round non-title bout, the last half of which was waged in an electrical storm.

Overlin's handlers disputed the decision, claiming the Washington battler took the bout. Two judges voted for Soose while the referee cast his ballot for Overlin.

About 8000 saw the battle which was heated at times. The nearest thing to a knockdown was when Overlin slipped to the floor in the eighth. He weighed 163 pounds and Soose 162½.

OLDEST, YOUNGEST. Johnny Cooney, 38-year-old Bees outfielder, and Bill Weitelmann, 19-year-old Bees infielder, talk things over before game. Despite their disparity in ages, they were the stars of the team on the recent western trip.

The greatest pitcher ever to don a Boston uniform? . . . without much dispute, it was Denton Tecumseh Young . . . Coscarart, Frey, Wyatt Fined

NEW YORK, July 25 (INS)—Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati's second baseman, and two Brooklyn players, Infielder Pete Coscarart and Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt, have been fined $25 for participating in a free-for-all during Tuesday's game on the Dodgers' field.

As a result of being spiked in the heat of the fighting, Junior Thompson, the Reds' No. 3 pitcher, is on crutches.

Mettlesome Ready For Arlington Race

Take it from Johnny McCabe, the Brookmeade stable's Mettlesome is going to win the Arlington Futurity. McCabe, who rode the famous Old Rosebud in all its winning races, is now galloping horses for Brookmeade and he thinks now that Mettlesome may be as good as Old Rosebud.

Mettlesome is credited with stepping a furlong in :10 2-5 and a quarter-mile in :21 over the Belmont track. He won his only race at Empire in a common gallop.

ALL-STAR TO FUTURE STAR

Look Like Next World Champions

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati Reds look better day by day and twice as good by night.

As they thrashed the Brooklyn Dodgers 6-3, last night for Bucky Walters' 15th victory this season, fans sat back and told their neighbors they were looking at the next world champions.

That was how smoothly the Redlegs disposed of the next best team in the National League.

They never made a fielding error during the entire three game series, which they swept with comparative ease to inflate their first place margin to eight full games.

The Reds now have taken seven of their last eight games against the Dodgers, have won 17 of the last 19 against all comers and their last six in a row.

CAMILLI HOMERS

Walters was at the peak of his form in the night game that drew 30,000 paying patrons to Ebbets Field, but he never had to bear down.

His teammates scored one run in the first inning and four more in the second, when they drove Tex Carleton off the mound with a triple and four singles.

Walters himself made two of the Reds' 11 hits. He muffled the Dodgers on five safeties until the ninth inning, when a single by Joe Medwick and a home run by Dolph Camilli saved Brooklyn from a complete rout.

In the only other National League game, the Boston Bees beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, with Carvel Rowell's triple knocking in the deciding run.

While the Reds have been settling the pennant dispute in the National League to all intents and purposes, the American League field has narrowed practically to two teams—Detroit and Cleveland.

Both won yesterday as the junior circuit came up with one of the wildest days in its history.

The Tigers kept half a game in front with a 7-5 decision over the Washington Senators that was credited to Fred Hutchinson, their $70,000 rookie.

BROWNS TOP YANKS

The Indians squeezed past the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-6, with Roy Weatherly's two-run homer providing the principal impetus.

The rampaging Chicago White Sox rolled up 20 hits in beating the Boston Red Sox, 12-10, for their sixth successive triumph.

The worst debacle of all, however, was at St. Louis, where the Browns ripped open the World Champion New York Yankees, 11-12, after the Yanks had tallied six runs in the first frame.

The Yanks got four homers, including one by Bill Dickey with the bases loaded, and another by Joe Di Maggio that extended his hitting streak to 17 games.

But the Browns kept digging away for 17 hits off New York pitchers, took a 12-10 lead in the seventh and after the Yanks tied the score in the ninth, Walter Judnich hit a homer with one on in the last half of the inning to win.

"AND THERE IT IS." Eddie Miller, Bees shortstop, gives Lawrence Quealy his first lesson in infielding. Eddie was at Tech Field to help out the Brookline youngsters, who one day may be cavorting in the big time. Boston Evening American Photo

Pennant Bug Bites White Sox Rooters

into the hitter Jimmy Dykes figured he should be.

In the first game of the series here he knocked in seven runs and personally accounted for the defeat of the Red Sox.

In the second game he contributed a single and home run which accounted for four more runs as the White Sox won again, this time 12 to 10.

For once the White Sox didn't get a well-pitched game. But the boys rose to the occasion like true champions and combed four Red Sox pitchers for 20 hits and a total of 38 bases.

WHITE SOX ABOVE .500

The mid-week gathering of 10,000 whooped it up all day long for the Comiskey Park favorites. They have noticed over the past month that no club in the first division evidently wants the flag, and they figure that the White Sox can sneak in if they keep up the brand of ball they have been playing the past month.

The Chisox just completed a highly profitable road trip, and today were over the .500 mark for the first time this year. They don't intend to fall below that mark again this year, either.

The fans have good basis for their hopes. Cleveland has been an in-and-out club all year, just as it has been every other year.

Detroit is a pretty sound club but it is doubtful if it will hold up well during the sweltering August days, with men like Bartell and Gehringer having trouble with their underpinnings and Buck Newsom out of action.

The Red Sox have gone over the edge. Their veterans are fading, and they have no youngsters coming up to replace them. And they haven't got any more pitching than they had three years ago when they had the best hitting club in the league.

MANAGER OF YEAR

The Yankees, it seems, have gone over the edge, too. They have had several fine chances to sweep to the front during the past month, and each time they refused the invitation.

So, the fans perceive, it is up to the White Sox. And the men of Dykes are not letting them down.

They're just starting a long home stand now, and they have their pitchers in trim. All the world seems bright and cheery, everywhere one roams along the south side of this great metropolis.

The fans are talking nothing but baseball. It has been 31 years since a pennant floated at Comiskey Park, and the fans want another. And if Cleveland and Detroit keep fumbling just a little longer, the fans might get their wish.

Manager of the year is Round Man Dykes. They'll be running him for mayor if his club ever does push through.

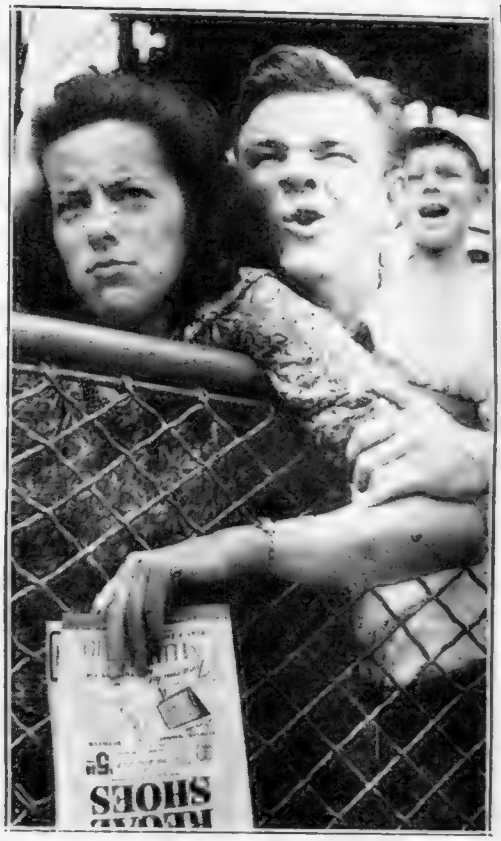
CHEERS TO JEERS WITH JOLLY DODGERS

YEAH!!!!!—Everybody's happy here. Brooklyn is leading Reds in first game of double-header. Dolph Camilli has just doubled two runs home. But Brooklyn lost, 4-3.

BLAH!!!!!!—The good old razmataz is heaped on the Brooklyn players as they fall before Reds in second game, 9-2. It was a terrific jolt to the fans, who pictured the pennant flying over Ebbets Field, especially with Ducky Medwick on the club. Brooklyn today was eight games behind the National League champions.



"OINK"—Loyal Brooklyn fans see club drop decision to Reds, 4-3, in 11 innings. That loss, and one in second game, ruined pennant hopes in Brooklyn for the year. They take their baseball seriously in Brooklyn, as you can see.

Track Records Smashed

As if the sun weren't doing a pretty good job, the horses burned up the tracks yesterday.

At the Arlington Park, Hoil Image, owned by E. F. Bennett of Chicago, set a new track record of 3:23 4-5 for the two mile event. His time gave him a four-length victory in the Arlington Park Handicap over Chance Sweet. The former track record was 3:24 2-5, held by Butter Beans. Exterminator holds the American mark of 3:21 4-5.

At Suffolk Downs Doubt Not ran three quarters in 1:10 2-5, fastest time of the N. E. season in winning the Boylston allowance stake.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

WHEN THE poet wrote "hope springs eternal in the human breast" he must have been thinking of former heavyweight boxing champions who labor under the delusion they can come back and reach their former greatness in the ring. I am more willing to accept the philosophy of those veteran sports writers who tell friends over their java that they never come back.

MAX BAER

This discourse is prompted by Max Baer, former heavyweight champion of the world, who aspires to win back his lost title from Joe Louis in their September bout.

The first time I ever saw Baer in action under fire was against Max Schmeling. Der Max had lost his title the previous year to Jack Sharkey, and was trying to battle his way to the top again. Baer had come in from the West where he had knocked out Ernie Schaaf and lesser lights.

Jack Dempsey was interested in Baer. He was the promoter of the Baer-Schmeling bout. It was Dempsey's dream to become promoter of the world's champion, and to take over the top position in boxing formerly occupied by his friend Tex Rickard.

It was a vicious, snarling Baer who fought Schmeling. At the gong for the first round Baer rushed from his corner intent upon the kill. He did not stop to do any foolish clowning or to fall into any physical culture poses. He was a fighting man with a job to perform.

Baer's body blows drove Schmeling back against the ropes, and planted fear in his heart.

Dempsey watched that first round drive from the steps leading up to Baer's corner. The old Manassa Mauler smiled as he recalled when as a young heavyweight he had rushed from his corner the same way to beat down Carl Morris, Fred Fulton, Bill Brennan and gigantic Jess Willard.

Schmeling was beaten in that first round although it was not until the 11th frame that he was knocked out.

The right hand punch that licked Schmeling turned him half way around and left him staring out at the crowd. The referee mercifully stopped the contest before Baer could land another blow.

BAER HAD LOST some of this old urge to destroy as early as the night he won the world's heavyweight title from Primo Carnera. Luxury acted as a wet blanket on Baer's knockout punch. Easy living made him more anxious to play the part of the court jester to that of the ring killer.

Baer was not 50 per cent of the fighter he had been against Schmeling the night he was outpointed by Jimmy Braddock. A fighting Baer would have swept past Braddock's left hand, and would have pounded the former Jersey welfare recipient down to defeat.

Baer clowned when he should have been tossing punches. He stalled to get his second wind when he should have been sweeping forward bent on destruction.

Defeat helped change Baer. He became more serious, and he has honestly tried to get into perfect condition.

Before Max's bout with Tony Galento, Ray Arcel, his trainer, told me that Baer had trained for six months and would put up as good a fight as a man of his age could be expected to do.

"It will be good enough to knock out Galento," said Arcel with conviction.

This statement was proved to be a correct size-up of the situation. Baer would fight in spurts of 20 seconds. He would keep his punches short, and would come back with driving blows when hit.

As Galento could not go fast for more than 10 seconds at a time, Baer had sufficient advantage to win.

ANCIL HOFFMAN, Baer's manager, told me Max regrets his former carelessness in training.

"If Baer had been as serious as champion as he is now," said Hoffman, "he would have held the title much longer than he did."

The old fighter usually gets serious. He realizes the mistakes of youth, and wishes he had made the most of his opportunities. He knows that if he did he would no longer have to punish himself training and that he would not have to give any thought to his financial future.

When boxers get to thinking that way the fistic parade usually is almost over for them.

Baer is certain to put up a courageous bout against Louis in September. He will get in as good condition as he can by hard training. He will enter the ring honestly believing he has a chance to win.

I think Max will also strive to make the fans forget the miserable showing he made against Louis in their last bout. He went down to defeat without making a whole-hearted fight. He may have entered the ring with damaged hands, but it was his poor heart that disgusted the spectators.

If this is to be Baer's last important fight, he wants it to be a good one. At the age of 31 Max would like to receive a double rating and then hang up his gloves in a blaze of glory.

It is to be regretted that Baer and so many other boxers awaken so late in their ring careers. When they were younger, they could have been as great as they had wished to be, but in those days were more interested in having fun.

Florimel Wins 2-Year-Old Trot At Gansett

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 25 (AP)—E. Roland Harriman's Florimel raced impressively against nine other juveniles to win the American two-year-old trot, feature event of the mid-west grand circuit program here.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Harriman were on hand to see the filly turn both heats in 2:10 ½, winning the first from W. H. Strang, Jr.'s His Excellency and the second from Benny Frank's Lucy Hanover in the second.

Florimel's winning effort in the second heat was particularly brilliant. She broke in the first turn and did not regain her stride for some little distance.

While young Del Miller, her driver, was trying to get her back in a trot, Lucy Hanover went to the front.

The Derby Farm's Little Pat did the fastest mile of this meeting when he won the first heat of the first division pace in the Trotting Club Stake in 2.03 ½. He won the second heat in 2:04 to take the stake which had value of $3078.60.

B. C. Mayo's Blackstone, whose mile in 2:00 is the fastest of the year, was distanced in the first heat of this race when he broke in the far turn.

New York Bets $111,000,000 On Horses

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—Based on figures for the first half of the state's 174-day racing season, New York bettors will pour more than $111,000,000 through the mutuel machines betting on their favorite horses this year.

During the first 87 days of the sport conducted under the mutuel system of betting for the first time, total wagering has amounted to $55,558,870, there has been a turnstile attendance of 1,090,750, and the state and tracks have divided "take" and "breakage" of $6 008,460.

The figures show that the average daily betting amounts to $638,608, and the average attendance has been 12,537.

Experts believe that both Belmont and Aqueduct cleared about $300,000 apiece, that Jamaica probably made close to $350,000 and that Empire City will likely show profit equal to its $600,000 expenditure for improvements.

Sirocco to Compete In Rockingham 'Cap

SALEM, N. H., July 25—Dixiana Stable's Sirocco, conquerer of Bimelech and Gallahadion in the $50,000 Arlington Classic, will join the great congress of thoroughbreds now gathered at Rockingham Park, and will appear at the 24-day summer meeting which opens next Monday.

Sirocco has been nominated for the New England Stakes Handicap, an event in which the three-year-olds will travel the mile and one-sixteenth route. The date of the race will be August 21, and it may be quite a day in the history of the sport in New England, for it may be quite a race.

Tom Waller, youthful trainer for the Brandon Stable, has nominated the brilliant Pass Out, winner of the Yankee Stakes at Suffolk Downs and trail blazer in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap when he ran the first mile in the scorching time of 1:35.

ASP IS STANDOUT

"Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, perhaps the most famous trainer in America, has nominated two sons of Gallant Fox—Dunky Fox and Foxleigh—on behalf of the Belair Stud, and three crack three-year-olds—Merry Knight, Ship Biscuit and Asp—for the Wheatley Stable.

Asp is one of the outstanding stars of the New York season, and a race among Asp, Pass Out Sircase would attract the greatest crowd in the history of the stylish little plant in the heart of vacationland.

The New England States Handicap, which seemed of minor importance when the stake book was issued, now assumes equal importance with the new Raceland Handicap, the Rockingham Park Handicap, or any one of the eight stakes which will be up for settlement.

Whether or not these mighty thoroughbreds will be in condition to accept the issue is, of course, uncertain but it is certain and definite that all three will be on the grounds and working out over the Rockingham racing-strip no later than next Monday.

TURNER ON HAND

Jimmy Smith, trainer of Sirecco, plans to start his star in the New England States Handicap, and use the race as a prep for the American Derby in Chicago. All of which is another way of saying that Rockingham Park, New England's oldest and smallest track, will have the greatest meeting in all its eight years.

Every solitary stable which asked for stall space intends to occupy the same. There has not been a single cancellation, and racing secretary John P. Turner, who arrived to take personal charge of the situation, will have at his command an army of 1800 thoroughbreds, of which 1200 will be quartered at the track and at neighboring farms, and 600 at Suffolk Downs.

Latin Rider Gets Latin Mount

A Latin rider will ride a Latin horse Saturday in the Hollywood Gold Cup when Eugenio Rodriguez, the star of the current Coast meeting, gets the leg up on Kayak II in the Hollywood Gold Cup. Rodriguez rode Big Flash to victory last Saturday in the Hollywood Derby and was rewarded by Charles S. Howard with the Kayak assignment.

CLEVELAND, July 25 (AP)—Bob Feller, Cleveland's star pitcher, was struck in the face by a ball thrown in pre-game practice here.

Feller was taken to the clubhouse and his face packed in ice, but club officials expressed belief the injury was not serious.

The ball was thrown accidentally by Keith Monroe, a Cleveland sandlot player who was working with the Indians, members of the team said.

FULLERTON PITCHES AGAINST CASEY CLUB

With the Casey Club-Navy Yard series standing at one-all through the Casey victory last night at Charlestown, the scene of battle will revert back to Dorchester tonight when the tars cruise to Town Field for the deciding clash of the trio.

Pitching against Carter's Clothes on Monday, the veteran Curt Fullerton handed the hard-hitting Coolidgemen a hurling lesson, in behalf of the Navy Yard, and with four days' rest the old Red Sox chucker may be assigned by Johnny Kirby for tonight.

Pete Corrone, scheduled to start last night, may be ready to stem the surge of the Blue, with Buddy Davis also a possible mound choice.

St. Alphonsus' cellar-vacating drive will begin tonight with the formidable Artesani Club of Allston as the Fens Stadium opposition, and the Artesanis, holding second place in the West by one point over St. Catherine's, will use big Johnny Smith to negotiate a win, while the St. Catherine Club will be at home at Charlestown with Roslindale Town Club as guests.

Bill Benson has kept his West Roxbury Club at the top of the heap in the East for more than one month, and all odds point in favor of the far suburbanites when they play the Hellenics at Cleveland Circle in the fourth and final presentation carded for tonight.

Randall, Reading Boy, To Drive at Keene

KEENE, N. H., July 25—Massachusetts and Rhode Island will be well represented in Sunday's 10-mile big car race at the Safford speedway here.

Bill Randall, Reading; Paul Lyons, Oxford; John Lavelle, Newton; Frank Harris, Malden, and Joe Baker, Hyannis, are the Bay Staters, while Gene Trinque of Mapleville leads the parade from Rhody. Don King, Pascoag, and Henry Turgeon, Pawtucket, are the others.

From other states are Fred Carpenter, Albany, N. Y.; Ted Harley, New Britain, Ct.; Joe Verberly, Bound Brook, N. J.; Sonny Martin, Bangor, Me., and Lee Warren, Troy, N. Y.

Olympets Face Montreal Nine At Garden

The feature softball game of the year will be played tonight at the Garden where the Boston Olympets face the invading Montreal Royals in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

In the opening game, Ben Levias' Totem Pole aggregation will face the state championship Worcester Girls.

Both the Royals and the Pets are considered the top teams of their districts.

The Royals came here with a team of seven years standing, and at the present are coasting along in first place in the Montreal Major League.

The Olympets, on the other hand, have been organized but two seasons, yet in that comparatively short time they have climbed to the peak of the Eastern softball heap.

Mary Pratt of Wollaston, chunky left-hander, will do the pitching honors for the Bostonians. She will be shooting for her third consecutive victory.

Gus Ogilvie, Royals' manager, will start his veteran Dora Wimmer on Les Habitants' hill. Miss Wimmer has a record of eight victories, and is the leader of the Montreal Major loop in the matter of wins.

Hayes, White Sox, Has Eye Cataract

CHICAGO, July 25 (AP)—The trouble which has bothered Jackie Hayes, Chicago White Sox second baseman, since the spring training camp period, was diagnosed today as a cataract of his right eye.

The examination was made by Dr. Harry Gradle, eye specialist, who told Hayes nothing could be done until the cataract "ripened," when an operation probably would be advisable.

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 25 (AP)—Tennis Coach Mercer Beasley likes to fellow to look good making a shot, but he's the first to tel you the shot's the thing and form is strictly secondary.

That's one reason Beasley is willing to step out and predict his protege, Frank Parker of Pasadena—whose forehand fashions have been a matter of tennis gossip for years—will win another leg on the big bowl that is the prize for the Sea Bright invitation tennis tourney.

"If Frank keeps on playing as he has been in this tournament, nobody here is going to beat him," said Beasley.

Parker, pressed to defeat Jack Kramer in a third-rounder, was due today to engage Kovacs, who yielded four games yesterday in polishing off Wilmer L. Allison, Austin, Tex.
